I've worked hard for success but I've never been a slave to my job --

says Thomas L. Thorkelson, C.L.U., Santa Ana, California

"I'm the kind of guy who likes to be independent. That's what attracted me to the insurance business. As a Mass Mutual agent I have the freedom I crave. I can organize my working hours to allow me to spend time with my family in our cabin in the High Sierras and to accept various speaking engagements across the country. I'm able to devote hours each week to serving as a bishop in the Mormon church. I have time for the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce and our local Boys' Club, and to teach an insurance course at Santa Ana College. I'm not a slave to my job in any sense of the word.

"But don't get me wrong. When I work, I work hard. I prefer to see clients right here in my office. I've found that this gives me much more time to be of service to them. I feel my first duty is to show my clients what life insurance can do and how important it is to an over-all financial plan. Once this is done I help them set up a suitable plan to fit their own individual needs. This involves more than advising them on types and amounts of life insurance. Quite often I find this means calling in their lawyer to advise them on related matters, or suggesting they contact a broker about investing extra cash they may have on hand."

Tom Thorkelson is a 1954 Business Ad graduate of the University of Southern California who has been a Mass Mutual agent for seven years. He earned the Chartered Life Underwriter Designation from the American College of Life Underwriters during his first three years in the business—qualified for the industry's National Quality Award for the past three years—has been a member of the Million Dollar Round Table for the past six years—and is a member of our Company's Inner Circle, the exclusive group of those who place $2 million or more of new individual life insurance in a year.

He is one of the highly skilled group of professionals representing Mass Mutual, a Company over a century old, with $3 billion in assets. If you're looking for the kind of freedom in your career Mr. Thorkelson has found in his, write a personal letter to: Charles H. Schaaff, President, Mass Mutual, Springfield, Massachusetts. He is always interested in hearing from a good man.

RESTLESS YOUTH: PROBLEM OR PROMISE?

by DR. JOHN F. TRAVERS, '50

Acting Associate Dean School of Education

Are there any "swingers" in your home? Are you "with it," or do short skirts and lengthy locks raise your blood pressure? Well, don't worry about it; you have company throughout the world. What should worry us is our search for the most effective means of coping with this surging tide of restlessness, discontent, and quest for certainty. Provided with a level of affluence unmatched in our history, today's youth are challenging the very structure that afford them this opportunity.

What is behind the unrest that goads the young? Surely any society that permits such freedom of expression must have some positive aspects. There is no single, simple explanation of the massive agitation that we see sweeping the country. Unquestionably some of it is a residue from the civil rights movement and the great sense of frustration about Vietnam that has gripped the nation. Our inability to solve these problems instantly has provoked doubt and uncertainty in the minds of many teen-agers.

Still, this is the easy answer. Others may attribute youthful rebellion to a changing concept of law enforcement in America. As the pendulum swings from a punitive to a rehabilitative notion of treatment, an individual may believe that offenders are coddled and become an example of unpunished misbehavior for youth. Again, this is the simple solution. Although the issue of civil rights, and peace or war in Asia, and doubt about principles of law enforcement remain gigantic obstacles to social progress, the great unsolved riddle that will surely determine the future of this nation is the question: where is the balance between security and liberty?

All other problems are peripheral to this enigma that is manifested at all levels of our society. Government officials ponder the quantity of information that our people require to make sound judgments about American policy; yet simultaneously, they are troubled by the extent to which this same information may endanger diplomatic maneuvering and military actions. Law enforcement officials struggle to maintain an equilibrium between the obvious necessity of wire-tapping and the frightful consequences of violating individual rights and liberty. In the home, parents constantly strive to achieve an atmosphere that maintains parental authority while encouraging a child's growth toward maturity.

How Restless Are Our Youth?

It is this last concern, that of the harmonious relationship between parent and child, that interests us here. Unfortunately it is a matter about which far too many American parents have lost perspective. Troubled by youthful demands that "everybody's doing it," plagued by a fear of being old-fashioned," and willingly abdicating responsibility, parents frequently expose their children to the temptations of the modern society before they are sufficiently mature. Liquor, sex, drugs, and assorted issues often engulf youngsters and destroy whatever chance they have of success and happiness. Lest the reader think this is an exaggeration, examine the following table carefully:

NUMBER OF ARRESTS FOR PERSONS UNDER 18 YEARS OF AGE, 1965*

Offense Charged	Number of Persons Arrested Under 18
Criminal Homicide
a) Murder and non-negligent manslaughter	459
b) Manslaughter by negligence	128
Forcible Rape	1,540
Robbery	9,835
Aggravated assault	9,637
Burglary—breaking or entering	68,291
Larceny— theft	143,201
Auto theft	45,982

*Abridged from: Crime in the United States: Uniform Crime Reports—1965. Washington, D.C.: Federal Bureau of Investigation, U.S. Department of Justice, 1965, p. 111.

These figures apply only to those under 18. The same FBI Report contains the notation that arrests of persons under 18 for serious crimes increased 47 percent in 1965 over 1960, while the increase in this age group for the same period was only 17 percent. But the truly remarkable part of these figures is that they represent only those youths who were apprehended. It is conservatively estimated that for each juvenile apprehended, at least ten others commit the same crime and remain undetected. We must also add to these figures those youngsters who, because of their parents' social standing in the community, are law violators but never are included in the official statistics.

Admittedly, the above examples are extreme cases but they do reflect a startling and worrisome trend: juvenile misbehavior is intensifying, both numerically and violently. Those of us with children need to know all we can about the causes of juvenile crime and what we can do to reduce the chances of the tragedy of delinquency striking our homes.

Causes of Delinquency

Perhaps it would be well to begin by stating that delinquency knows no financial or geographic boundaries. Most of us tend to associate crime and delinquency with the so-called poverty areas. This is unfortunate because a fine home, clothes, cars, and the like are no guarantee that children will avoid potentially damaging acts. Unless these assets are coupled with a warm relationship between parent and child, these advantages may become a means to a troubled end.

To help us in our search for that intangible something that creates a happy home, let us first examine the nature of delinquency itself and then proceed to analyze some measures that might guide parents. Although behavioral scientists are still groping for the causes of crime and delinquency, they are certain about one fact: delinquent behavior cannot be explained by any single cause. Delinquent behavior involves a human being who possesses a free will and lives in a society that is becoming steadily more complex. The origins of delinquency are so rooted in personal, social, economic, political, and moral elements that all we can safely state is that delinquency is produced by forces that are multiple, complex, and interactive.

We can roughly divide these multiple causes of delinquency into external and internal sources. About these external causes of deviancy, we can safely say that America's youth are now subjected to new and different interpretations of happiness and values. When a youngster in the ten to seventeen age range is bombarded by novel ideas there is a natural feeling of uncertainty: who is right, and what is right? It is precisely here that conflict in the home repeatedly arises.

Sources of Conflict

What causes these conflicts? External causes include the home, church, school, and community. While these categories encompass most facets of human activity, caution is again urged lest we designate any one of them as the cause of delinquency. Seldom, if ever, does a youngster become delinquent because of one agent. But certain influences appear with remarkable frequency within each category. Among these are:

1. Home conditions: divorce, desertion, separation, poor discipline, immorality, emotional disturbance, neglect, and criminality in the home.
2. Church: lack of religion, non-attendance at religious services, no moral values, inadequate facilities, and untrained personnel.
3. School: poor teaching, lack of proper curriculum, poor guidance, lack of sufficient vocational training, and inadequate facilities.
4. Community: lack of interest in the problems of youth, salacious literature, questionable movies and television programs, poor court facilities for juvenile cases, lack of proper recreational outlets, and a scarcity of trained juvenile officers.

These are the forces that are external to the youngster and act upon him. Of the forces that act within the youngster—his thoughts, attitudes, and emotions—are there any pertinent individual characteristics that assume particular significance? The most frequently observed are:

1. Intelligence. Formerly, mental deficiency was considered the chief cause of delinquency. But now there is substantial evidence that the intelligence of delinquents is only slightly lower than that of non-delinquents and no general conclusion about the relationship of low intelligence to delinquency is possible.

2. Early Warnings. There is about unanimous agreement that the signs of deviant behavior appear at an early age. Studies have shown that as many as 90% of delinquents manifest unmistakable evidence of future misbehavior before 11 years of age. This is the critical time when observant parents must take preventive action. It is unrealistic for any parent to think that he or she can control a child at 16 when he is completely undisciplined at 6 or 8.
3. Personality. Youngsters who exhibit little self-control and an impulsive nature often act out their emotional conflicts. They are restless, discontented, and usually defiant of authority. A combination of these personality characteristics makes it difficult for this kind of youngster to adjust to society's concept of law and order.
4. Interests. The interests and activities of the delinquency-prone youngsters commonly are more adventurous and harmful than those of non-delinquents. These activities are unmistakable because they usually center around bars, penny arcades, pool rooms, and the like. Another persistently overlooked consideration, is the ease and availability of modern transportation. The boy or girl seeking excitement simply uses a car or public transportation to travel miles from his home. Unknown in this new environment, and removed from the restrictions of familiar face-to-face relationships, a youth may engage in activities that ordinarily would never occur to him in his own neighborhood.
5. Economic. Lest the reader immediately question "economic" as an internal cause of delinquency, let me hasten to add that it is the consequences of economic matters that concern us. Although crime and delinquency know no financial barrier, money difficulties, as exemplified by unemployment and resort to welfare, characterize many, even a majority of delinquents' homes. Efforts to obtain spending money may easily lead to stealing, employment as a "runner," and other assorted, criminal acts. A particular problem is the working mother. There is irrefutable evidence that mothers of delinquents more often work than do mothers of non-delinquents. If mothers are not in the home when children return from school, one of two undesirable developments is inevitable. Either youngsters are in the home, alone and unsupervised, or they habitually refuse to return to the home until it is time for the evening meal. The possibility of disastrous results is readily seen. In both instances, youngsters are unsupervised. To be brutally frank, for the time specified these youngsters are as neglected as the worst cases imaginable and just as prone to trouble. This is true regardless of the purpose for which the mother works—second car, color TV, or summer vacation. It would be far better for parents to sacrifice almost anything and provide a home that is warm and harmonious, one to which the youngsters want to return and bring their friends.

These are but a few of the more obvious causes of delinquency, both external and internal. The reader can unquestionably mention several more. The importance of these causes lies in their interactive nature. For example, a youngster with a working mother may drift to a pizza palace or penny arcade, he may make new friends, and he may begin some petty stealing, or some similar activity. Alert parents must move to prevent these initial stirrings from becoming overt misbehavior. Parents must act, not with heavy-handed authoritarianism, but with such subtlety that youngsters are guided to maturity and independence. To conclude this section, parents should watch for signs of extreme restlessness and aggressiveness, coupled with strongly negative attitudes toward school and early manifestation of misbehavior, such as truancy. If we disregard these early warnings, we have no one but ourselves to blame for the bitter harvest of juvenile crime.

The Home

How can parents establish a home in which there is a pleasant relationship among all family members and a combination of firmness and freedom that encourages both self-reliance and self-discipline? J. Edgar Hoover makes the flat statement that there is only one way to eliminate juvenile delinquency and that is by providing each child in America with competent parents.

Study after study shows that official delinquents more frequently come from homes that are shattered by divorce or separation than do non-delinquents. But it is also clear that, psychologically, a broken though happy home has a less traumatic affect upon children, than does an unbroken but unhappy home, and produces less delinquency, better relations, and fewer psychosomatic symptoms. Naturally the happy, unbroken home results in the least personal and interpersonal problems.

Another important element, one that has often been lost because of the significance of the mother's role, is the bond between father and son, and father and daughter. Research indicates that when a male is absent, or erratic in his parental role, there is a tendency for both male and female children to engage in deviant behavior.

Certainly there is nothing startling in this statement. What is now receiving more concentrated scrutiny is the relationship between father and daughter. It is presently accepted that without a happy and respectful interchange between father and daughter, a growing girl tends to exaggerate her awkwardness, is retarded in the acquisition of social poise, and is extremely uncertain of herself in contacts with boys.

Until they are about 10 or 11, girls like to engage in the same rough and tumble activities that boys have with their fathers. Then there is a sudden departure from this behavior; the teen-ager timidly thrusts a foot forward into her feminine role and expects a totally different reaction from father and brothers. Since it comes from brothers with grudging reluctance over the span of years, a father must act quickly to reassure his daughter at this critical moment. Treated with respect and dignity, and yet enjoying the typical give-and-take of a normal home, a girl can mature with gaiety and confidence. When we note that the FBI reports that arrests of girls under eighteen increased by 8.9%, the need for more attention devoted to the pattern of delinquency among girls becomes apparent.

Whether he be a boy or girl, or both, raising children in our complex, impersonal, and fast-paced society is a difficult chore for the most diligent of parents. Delinquent behavior is learned behavior and when we consider how impressionable are young children and adolescents we may more readily understand how their inquiring minds accept the codes of morality to which they are exposed. Of these environmental influences none is more significant in a child's early life than the home because it is during these years of character development that a child learns from observation of his parents.

Their love and care is recognized by the child and reciprocated in many ways, among them the desire to follow the guidelines formulated in the home. If neglect and disregard are offered to the child, then neglect and disregard are returned and the youngster seeks his ideals elsewhere. As mentioned before, neglect has many meanings. It may be the total neglect that withholds love, supervision, and material goals. It may be the neglect that provides a plethora of worldly materials but withholds affection and care. It may be the far more insidious neglect that refuses to accept the possibility of the youngster doing any wrong, the neglect to teach respect for the law and the rights of others.

Proper Parental Perspective

Youngsters are youngsters and they unquestionably will commit misdemeanors. Pity the poor child whose parent rises in righteous anger and moves to protect him at all costs. Oftentimes such action spares a child from a just punishment, but prevents him from receiving help from qualified personnel.

For example, a recent case in the FBI files concerns an 11-year-old Oregon boy who had committed numerous burglaries. Before the string of burglaries, the boy's deeds had brought him to the attention of the police. When the police contacted the mother they were roughly rebuffed. She violently defended the boy and accused the police of persecution. The story came to a tragic end when the boy was apprehended in armed robbery during which he threatened a woman with a loaded rifle.

If the mother had cooperated with authorities at the first onset of misbehavior, it is possible that story could have had a more pleasant outcome. Unhappily this is a familiar case, one that is repeated tens of thousands of times. If there is a moral here, it is this: Force your child to face reality and punish him reasonably for misdeeds at an early age.

Too much money, availability of cars, and inadequate supervision spell trouble, just as too little money and inadequate supervision. Does this contradict what has been said about excessive protection? Not at all. What is implied here is that there is no absolutely safe road along which we can guide our children. The search for individual techniques that function well with one boy or girl, may fail miserably with a different personality. The extent of freedom or restraint offered by parents varies with the parent and child and must constantly be adjusted. There are some constants, nevertheless, and these include:

1. Love and understanding of children, plus the time to cultivate friendship by doing things together.
2. Good example in the home, with parents respecting the law and teaching their children to do likewise.
3. Morality in the home, with children shielded from bickering, drinking, and all aspects of "white collar crime" (stealing from the office, cheating on taxes).
4. Loyalty to children, accompanied by the obligation to teach children to face the consequences of their actions.

5. Mutual cooperation, in which individual goals and family goals are realistic and offer the opportunity of attainment.
6. Perhaps most important, a common sense view of youthful trials and tribulations and a determination to avoid panic; above all, parents should shun extremes, whether it is permissiveness or restriction.

If, for some reason, there is a breakdown of communication in the home, the child looks elsewhere for his standards. It is apparent that other community agencies must assume responsibility. Of these agencies the school is in the best position to aid the youth in his hunt for standards of behavior that are personally, and socially acceptable.

The Role of the School

The school faces two distinctly different types of problems in its endeavors either to reinforce standards of behavior, or to attempt to alter undesirable behavioral patterns. The first is the youngster who arrives at school relatively untroubled and encounters academic difficulty either because of his own ability, or because of the nature of the curriculum.

These are usually three critical times when such a dilemma may arise:

1. When a child enters school, he immediately is engaged in the task of reading. If he falters, a reading problem quickly spreads to other subjects and by the third or fourth grade the child may have an intense dislike of school. As parents, we must recognize symptoms of a reading problem and cooperate fully with school personnel. But this is impossible unless parents are interested in the school work of their youngsters, take the time to listen to their children and read their papers, and maintain a close contact with teachers and administrators.

2. When a youngster selects his curriculum in the secondary school, he should select those courses for which he has both the inclination and the ability. In our status-conscious society there is a distressing tendency for parents to push their youngsters into schools, courses, and activities for which they simply are not equipped. The unavoidable outcome is bitterness, frustration, and emotional problems that often end in open aggression against home, school and society in general. The best advice for parents is this: be guided by a youngster's interests, inclinations, and talent. Avoid forcing them; it can only result in conflict and unhappiness.

3. When a youth enters college, he enters into a new world. It is a world of challenging ideas, of exciting peers, and of tempting freedom. In many ways it is a time for parents to exercise extremely subtle authority in their efforts to insure that these young adults properly utilize the rewarding and fulfilling experiences of college life. It is too late to dictate to them; it is never too late to reinforce the standards and values that have guided them this far. Reason and persuasion are the most effective tools; command and demands are relatively fruitless and only antagonize to the point of open conflict. In no sense does this imply an abandonment of authority; it is hard to let go of the reins, or even to relax them, but it must be done. Anything else—the extremes of permissiveness or restriction—extracts too high a price.

The second major problem that schools encounter is the youngster who brings some emotional conflict into the classroom. Today the schools are accepting their responsibility to identify and treat those cases that are within their competence. Seriously disturbed youngsters do not belong in a normal classroom and parents do a disservice to their children when they battle school administration in an attempt to keep youngsters in an average class.

Again the reader should recall that social deviancy (a nice term for delinquent behavior) occurs at all strata of society. Your school system should have some kind of special class that enables skilled personnel to work with disturbed youngsters. Such programs, called compensatory education, are expensive but worth every penny.

While there is no intention to examine the details of school programs, a few general examples might be interesting. The Baltimore public schools are experimenting with an early admission program that is intended to overcome the environmental deficiencies of the selected children. In a disadvantage section of Buffalo, several elementary schools were coordinated to develop a far-reaching program that makes extensive use of community resources and personnel. Since 1960 the Chicago system has conducted a series of experimental summer schools, which have the advantage of small numbers, excellent supplementary services, carefully screened teachers, and daily scheduling to meet the needs of the youngster.

Many more, outstanding examples could be given but as parents we are probably more concerned with our children's reactions to their present school. Experts indicate that among the signs of trouble parents should watch for are:

1. An open, active dislike of school. The logical question is: Why?
2. A feeling of rebellion about school standards and routine.
3. Lack of interest and persistent failure.
4. Repetition of one or more years.
5. Consistent misbehavior in school.
6. Temper tantrums, conflicts with teachers, and a desire to leave school.
7. Truancy.

Any youngster may experience a trying school year in which there may be a personality clash with a teacher, trouble with some subject, or even an occasional truancy. It is when these signs appear persistently that parents should beware. The school is really a society within a society and as the youngster reacts to this smaller society, so also he may react to all segments of community life.

Conclusion

It is an age of turmoil and as parents we are caught in the midst of conflicting desires. We want our youngsters to have everything that is possible, but we want to avoid spoiling them. We want them to have a necessary amount of freedom, but we want to exercise a needed amount of authority. We want them to understand current changes in society, but we want them to preserve traditional ideals and values. What is the answer?

In this brief article, it was necessary to emphasize the negative aspects of development to encourage readers to search actively for the first signs of misbehavior. If such behavior is checked sufficiently early, both child and parents are spared considerable grief. Then can the restlessness of youth become a promise, and not a problem. A happy blending of restraint and freedom, harmony in the home, cooperation with school, and devotion to God, plus the inherent good sense of the average parent will give youngsters a healthy headstart toward maturity and happiness.

MAKING HISTORY

at BOSTON COLLEGE

by DR. THOMAS H. O'CONNOR, '49
Chairman, History Department

"THE History Department continues to enhance its reputation for excellence. In the overall competence of its teachers, the Department is almost unchallenged."

No, these are not the ravings of a frantic Chairman or the souped-up press releases of a fast-talking publicity agent. These are the words of undergraduate students who recently compiled and published a "critique" on departments and courses at Boston College.

Like any strong department or agency in any quality organization, a first-rate university department must be carefully constructed from the ground up, and this is a job that requires long-range planning, careful organization, and a good deal of patience. From a small department which offered basic courses in Western Civilization, the Department of History at Boston College has grown steadily to become one of the largest departments in the university with a full-time faculty of twenty-five professors whose advanced degrees represent leading universities. Its course curriculum at the present time includes a fascinating range of offerings for students in every college and at every level. Electives in Medieval History, Modern European History, American History, Russian History, East European History, Latin American History, Asian History, and many other areas of history permit the student the widest possible latitude at a time when his opportunities for elective courses has greatly expanded.

The proof of any pudding, of course, is always in the eating, and the results of the upgrading in the history program is more than evident in the increasing numbers of students working at major graduate schools throughout the country. Al Andrea, '62, is completing his doctoral work at Cornell University in Medieval History; Bill Hardiman, '65, is working at Brown University in American History; and Tom Burke, '66, is specializing in Latin American History at Stanford University. Jerome Bylebvl, '65, is currently at Yale University in the History of Science, and Dennis McCarthy, '66, is at the same institution in the field of Economic History. Joe Lynch, '65, and Bob Sullivan,

Prof. John R. Cox, Ph.D., University of California (Berkeley). Medieval Culture.

Prof. Allen M. Wakstein, Ph.D., University of Illinois. American Urban History.

Prof. Hermann Schussler, Ph.D., Kiel University. European Church History.

Prof. Samuel J. Miller, Ph.D., Brown University. Renaissance and Reformation.

Prof. Silas Wu, Ph.D., Columbia University, History of Modern China.

'66, both Woodrow Wilson nominees, are working in the field of Medieval History at Harvard University. Lubomyr Hajda, '66, is pursuing Russian Studies at Harvard, while Blaise Nagy, '65, is specializing in East European History. At the University of Wisconsin, Sam Scott, '65, is completing his doctoral work in French History, and Gene De Vita, '65, is winding up his studies in American Political History.

This year, three history majors were awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships: Edward Hammond will be working at Berkeley in Chinese History, while both Tom Walker and Lester Libby have been accepted into graduate programs at Wisconsin. Lee Cassanelli, a winner of a Danforth Fellowship this year and a recipient of an NDEA award, Prof. Raymond T. McNally (left), Ph.D., Free University of Berlin. Professor of Russian History and Director, Institute for Russian and East European Studies with Prof. Thomas H. O'Connor, Ph.D., Boston University, Chairman, History Department.

we have trained, the graduate program of our Department will inevitably attract students of higher calibre and professors of established reputation."

One thing about which Dr. O'Connor is certain, however, is that the expansion of the graduate program will not take place at the expense of its excellent undergraduate program. "We have worked too hard and too long to lose those benefits which have allowed us to send out top graduates to some of the finest universities. And what's more, it isn't necessary as long as the Department has professors who are sincerely interested in teaching, as well as students who benefit from personal attention. I have no doubt that with the same kind of care and planning we can create a graduate program in which dedicated teaching and serious scholarship play a prominent role."

Rev. Leonard Mahoney, S.J., Ph.D., Georgetown University. European Diplomatic History.

will study African History at Wisconsin. Anthony La Vopa, a Wilson Honorable Mention, will specialize in American Diplomatic History at Cornell University; and James L'Abbé, another Wilson Honorable Mention, has been awarded a four-year Chancellor's Fellowship to study Medieval History at UCLA.

"Perhaps the most exciting and challenging aspect of the whole thing," says Dr. O'Connor, "is that the true value and potential of the History Department at Boston College has just begun to be realized. As our excellent professors begin to achieve national prominence through their publications, and as universities throughout the nation begin to appreciate the superior qualities of the students

DOES YOUR LEGAL WILL STILL REFLECT YOUR PERSONAL WILL?

by FRANCIS J. DEVER, '42
Director of Estate Planning, Boston College

*"If but the will be firmly bent,
No stuff resists the mind's intent."*

—OLIVER ST. JOHN GOGARTY

IF YOU are like most of us, you are probably just about recovering from the effects of your annual bout with the Internal Revenue Service and the settling of your annual account with Uncle Sam. Again like most of us, you have probably firmly resolved that during 1967 you will keep all your papers in one easily accessible place so that you won't have to spend hours hunting down receipted medical bills, records of taxes, interest, and contributions.

While you are thinking about financial planning, wouldn't it be a good idea to take a closer look at your family's financial situation for 1967, and for the foreseeable future? Why not focus some attention upon that will you drew up a few years ago.

Are you quite sure that your intentions and your circumstances have not changed since the will was drawn?

Is it possible your will is now out of date?

Let us see how this might happen.

About a dozen years ago, Mr. J., then sole proprietor of a small, struggling electronics company, asked his lawyer to draw up a will for the protection of his family. Under its terms, all of his assets, which then represented only a modest amount of life insurance, would go to his wife. When the will was made, it was sensible and timely.

Scarcely five years later the will was completely obsolete. His business had prospered nicely under the impetus of several fair-sized defense contracts, and his personal estate had swelled to a bit more than $100,000. Then, within a two-year period, both Mr. J. and his wife received unexpected inheritances of $125,000 and $75,000 respectively. Immediately his estate increased in value to $225,000 and hers to $75,000.

If the will were to be followed, Mrs. J., if she survived her husband, would be liable for $57,000 in federal estate taxes before her children inherited any portion of her husband's estate.

It happened, however, that the attorney who had drawn up the will was also a close personal friend of the family, and when he learned of the sizeable inheritances, he urged Mr. J. to make a new will at once.

Mr. J. agreed and arranged a new family financial plan that provided:

1. Savings in estate taxes of more than $29,000.
2. New wills so that the combined assets of the husband and wife would be coordinated for the benefit of Mrs. J. and her children.
3. Establishment of living trusts which would give sound management and prudent investment supervision for the family assets now.

But if the attorney had not known of the changes in Mr. and Mrs. J.'s fortunes, the husband might never have reviewed and revised his will, and his oversight might have cost their children $29,000 in estate taxes unnecessarily.

Relatively few of us, of course, receive substantial inheritances during our lifetime. Even fewer of us want to visit a lawyer for an annual financial check-up. Nevertheless, your financial circumstances can change in a variety of ways, each of them a sign that your will might need review and revision.

Ground-breaking ceremonies marking the official beginning of the long-awaited Center for Social Sciences took place at the Chestnut Hill campus on April 21, 1967. Representing the Institute of Human Sciences Fund Committee, which has been actively raising money among leaders of the Greater Boston Jewish community for the new facility were (at left) Alfred L. Morse and (for right) Sidney R. Robb, committee co-chairmen. The other two shovel-wielders are Very Rev. Michael P. Walsh, S.J., president of Boston College, and Richard Cardinal Cushing. The shovel used by Cardinal Cushing is the same one which turned the first earth more than half a century ago when the construction of Gosson Hall (the Tower Building) began.

Some of the signs might seem to be obvious, others less so. They are all worth remembering as an occasional check list or guide in planning your estate so that your survivors will gain as much of your estate as possible.

The following tips may be valuable to you.

Whenever you or your wife comes into an inheritance, regardless of size, look into its effect upon your total estate. Your present plan may well cover the new situation adequately. If it does not, much of your additional estate may go to taxes—to the detriment of your wife and children.

Whenever you add substantially to the insurance on your life, make a careful analysis of its possible effects. If a man whose estate now totals $240,000 buys new insurance worth $80,000, he may—unless his estate has been planned to dovetail with this new asset—be offering the tax collector $22,000 of that life insurance, his estate only an additional $58,000.

That is a real possibility. And yet, if the same man were to integrate that $80,000 of insurance within a carefully arranged two-trust estate plan, the insurance would effectively be worth more than $91,000.

Two main points concerning life insurance benefits should always be kept in mind. First, life insurance proceeds are usually subject to federal estate taxes. Second, the disposition of life insurance is quite distinct from the disposition of your estate through your will. When your will and your life insurance are properly coordinated, your heirs may receive larger benefits. Your attorney, life underwriter, or trust officer will be glad to explain the details to you upon request.

Whenever your net worth increases substantially—through investment, for example, or through business or professional successes—you would be very wise to reassess at present value your current net worth for federal estate tax purposes. Surprisingly, many people whose earned income and investment income have grown are unaware of their actual worth. If you add up what you own and find you have considerably increased your holdings, see your attorney and seek advice.

Sometimes, indeed, with careful estate planning you might be able to pass on to your heirs an amount actually greater than the increase in your net worth. Federal tax laws are sometimes anomalous. Suppose, for example, your investments over the years have increased your net worth from $300,000 to $400,000. A prudent estate plan in conjunction with this increase might provide your heirs with a net gain of $68,500. Without such a plan, the net gain might be as little as $38,000.

Pay close attention to the value of your pension fund and your benefits from profit-sharing plans where you work. These are certainly forms of wealth, and they are affected by the tax laws. At the present time, for example, profit-sharing benefits may be hit by both capital-gains taxes and estate taxes. If distribution is made on death before retirement, estate taxes may be avoided if the estate is properly planned through the establishment of a trust.

When you move from one state to another, make sure that the will you made in your former residence can still function exactly according to your wishes. Laws on wills vary from state to state. If in doubt, consult your lawyer for guidance.

Remember that federal tax laws are subject to change by the Congress. They have been changed before, and they can be changed again—perhaps to your disadvantage. Make it a practice to keep reasonably abreast of tax proposals and amendments to existing laws. If any seem to affect your estate plan seriously, see your attorney. He will be glad to help you.

Be very vigilant about modifying your will if you dispose of assets specifically named in your will. If you bequeath a certain number of shares of stock or a certain piece of real property to a relative, it is important to revise your will if you sell the securities during your lifetime. Unless you do, the relative may be deprived of assets you wanted him to have.

Almost everyone knows that it is seldom wise to bequeath specific amounts of money to beneficiaries. The man with a current estate of $100,000 whose will states that Participants in the highly successful Estate Building and Management Institute held recently at Boston College pause briefly between panel sessions. Shown here (left to right) are: Charles L. Quinn, C.L.U., general chairman of the Institute; Ambrose J. Claus, C.P.A.; Vincent P. Stanton, investment analyst; and Milton L. Kay, C.L.U., the latter three panel speakers. The Very Reverend W. Seavey Joyce, S.J., vice president of Boston College, is at right. Some 700 business and professional persons, both men and women, who attended the all-day conference at Bapst Library were given advice and practical suggestions on handling their current financial affairs and tips on the planning of personal and family estates.

"$12,500 is to go to each of my four daughters and the residue of my estate to my only son" may believe that his son will receive as much as the four daughters together; but if between the time the will is drawn and his death, his estate shrinks in value, his son may receive much less than the father had desired. If the estate drops to $50,000 before the death of the testator, the son will in fact receive nothing. The law requires that wills be executed just as they are written. It is far more prudent to dispose of your assets by fractional shares. In that way, possible financial reverses will not cut off a desired beneficiary.

Then again, sometimes the needs of the beneficiaries themselves change over the years. Leaving everything in equal shares to your children (after taking care of your wife) may seem equitable today. But the needs of people do not remain equal always; a subsequently widowed daughter may deserve far more of your substance than a son.

In such a circumstance, a review of your will is a must, particularly if you want to provide for her future through the appointment of a trustee or an experienced executor who will give her financial advice.

And finally, your will certainly needs to be revised and redrawn if the executor you named is no longer able to serve. If he is in poor health, if the press of his business affairs make him less able to devote what you feel would be enough time to the carrying out of your will, or if he has moved to another state, you should arrange at once for a new will and a new—and preferably experienced—executor. Remember to choose as executor the very best person you can find who will function in accordance with your personal wishes and in behalf of the best interests of your family. Select him with great care.

These, then, are a few of the signs you should watch for—indications that your will might have become obsolete, that it is time for you to take stock once again of your total financial situation. Your will represents your wishes and your plan for the protection and financial well-being of your loved ones after your death. Why take unnecessary chances with their future?

CATHOLIC-MARXIST DIALOGUE

A CRACK IN THE WALL

One third of the world is currently under the yoke of Communism and two thirds of the world adheres to some form of socialism. No one really believes that the pace in this direction will be slackened and hence even diplomatically our efforts have been toward a policy of containment. But aside from the strategems of politics, the fact of the matter is that a particular brand of philosophy serves as a rederos for this historical phenomenon—and this philosophy is that of Marxism. Hence any contemporary philosophy department should devote some part of its academic brains to the study of this area of knowledge.

For the Catholic University this becomes doubly important because since the Second Vatican Council we have moved in the direction (1) toward international peace and (2) toward mutual understanding by dialogue often typified by the neologism-ecumenism. But more than this,—despite the avowed atheism of Marxism as a philosophy, there are hopeful signs developing in its evolution. "Revisionism" at its roots means that the intelligentsia have realized that "evolution" in a sociological sense is a necessary element in their own philosophy. It is also a hopeful sign that we are beginning to realize the same thing about our own.

Moreover the revived interest in the writings of the young Karl Marx and the impact of Existentialism have generated a reciprocal interest among Marxists resulting in a new respect for the "person." Even for the Marxists, at least some of the philosophers among them, the "person" is a reflective and self conscious entity who is free.

And all of this has opened up new ethical problems in the face of the apparent dichotomy between the determinism of historical materialism and the free choices of the newly elaborated idea of the human "person." Many lands now subjugated to the yoke of Communism are radically Catholic in their thinking and culture. They still yearn for answers to the ultimate questions about the meaning of life, existence and death that Marxism so far has been sorely put to answer.

The strange thing about Marxism as a philosophy is that it has more in common with traditional Catholic thought than it has either with Existentialism or Neo-Positism, its two great competitors in the realm of academe today. Marxists are, after all, basic realists, holding firmly for personal moral responsibility and are sincerely intent on the betterment of our social milieu. Not that other philosophies too are not interested in these problems but the Weltanschauung of Marxism relies on an epistemology of realism that furnishes the threshold so necessary for consequent dialogue.

Of course, we do not intend to minimize the chasms that separate us even in the field of philosophy,—atheism, totalitarianism, conflict over property rights and the chance to choose a career—all best summed up in the realization that on the practical level there is an utter lack of freedom as understood in the West. Nevertheless Pope John XXIII gave a benign smile toward the East and Paul VI has already set up a commission to study ways and means to further the dialogue. Already several meetings between Marxists and Christians have occurred that have revealed some incipient cracks in the proverbial wall.

It is true that on the university level many institutes and programs toward this type of research have been inaugurated. But such developments have concentrated on political, economic and sociological aspects of Communism. We think that Boston College is the first university, at least here in the United States, to initiate a program in its graduate school that is centered on a study of the philosophy of Marxism. Here at Boston College we are fortunate to have gathered scholars who are equipped for this purpose. Among them is Dr. Thomas J. Blakeley the new director of the program. Dr. Blakeley received his doctorate in this area of study from Friburg University, Switzerland where he studied under the renowned Dominican scholar of Russian studies, Fr. I. M. Bochenski. He continues to serve as a co-editor of the Journal of East-European Studies and has published numerous books and articles in his special field among which are Soviet Theory of Knowledge; Soviet Scholasticism and Soviet Philosophy. He will be assisted in the program by Rev. Frederick J. Adelman, S.J. who has been teaching courses in Marxism at Boston College for a number of years and is currently editing a volume of studies in this area. Other colleagues are Dr. Joseph Navickas of the Boston College Philosophy Department who is a student of Hegel; Rev. Oliva Blanchette who has participated in some of the meetings mentioned above involved in a dialogue with Marxists. Professor Raymond McNally and his staff from the Boston College Institute in East European Studies will offer background courses in allied but non-philosophical areas. This program will be of especial interest to those students planning state department or other governmental careers even on the international level and also for those preparing for academic degrees in the field of philosophy. Over-all it represents a quest for understanding and dialogue in an area that must be known and investigated if we are to follow the decrees of the Second Vatican Council and become involved in our world so that we can make a contribution toward its betterment.

GOOD BYE TO ALL THAT—

The Boston College 'College Bowl' Team

“NOT winning, but taking part” is the motto of the Olympic games, and suggests the best terms in which to remember the B. C. College Bowl Team. It was a very fine team, gathered fans from all parts of the country, (as letters to team members and Mr. Folkard show), and presented an excellent image of the College to millions who had probably never heard of us before. For the scoreboard, the team gathered the 3rd highest total of points ever (420) in its first game, achieved a grand total of over 1,000 points, the highest ever for 4 games, and showed throughout a speed of response and a range of factual information which quite took away the breath of those of us who watched, in tense excitement, their 4 television appearances. Excited tension was undeniably the keynote of the second and third games, and if we, team, coach, and spectators, were somewhat less than happy about the final game—for a multitude of reasons which could be discussed and argued over until we next send a team to compete—we may look back with pride on the laurels which Messrs. Posch, Bruno, Caraber, and Lavrakas collected, and take heart from them and from the thought that in any competition it really is not winning but taking part that counts.

(ED. NOTE: The Silver Anniversary Class of 1942 will meet the College Bowl team in a challenge game on Saturday, June 2 at 12 Noon, prior to the Alumni Luncheon in McElroy Commons.)

The Archduke: The Romantic Love Story of Rudolf of Habsburg, by Michael Arnold, Doubleday, N.Y., 297 pp., $4.95.

One of the finest novels published in the first three months of this year was written by a Boston College undergraduate, and the event, I think, is unique in the history of the college. I asked a member of the English department if he or any of his colleagues had ever published a novel and he thought not. The number of graduates who have published novels can be counted on the fingers of one hand. The most prolific, if my memory can be trusted, have been Joseph Dever and Myles Connolly, neither of whom has received the attention he deserves. One president of the college wrote a very poor novel decades back. Perhaps Mr. Dever's "Three Priests," is the best, along with Connolly's "Mr. Blue," which is more a novella. But Arnold has shown a sophistication of style and insight which stands alone.

He has taken a theme worn thread-bare by Hollywood, a famous European mystery, a double shooting that rocked the royal houses of Europe at the close of the 19th century, and he has turned it brilliantly into a piece of fiction. He is not writing historical fiction; he is writing fiction that takes an incident in history as its point of departure.

The Crown Prince Rudolf Francis Charles Joseph, heir to the throne of Austria, only son of the Emperor Franz Joseph, that twilight figure who looked more like an emperor than any of his predecessors or any of his contemporaries, was found dead with his mistress Maria Vetsera, on the morning of Jan. 29, 1889, in his hunting lodge at Mayerling. Author Arnold, son of a Boston taxi-cab driver, and now an alumnus, accepts the theory, which is likely, that it was a suicide pact, that Rudolf killed Maria and then himself. He was half in a conspiracy against his father, perhaps in the hopes of being crowned King of Hungary to divide the Dual Monarchy.

Arnold fictionalizes the story, and alters (announcing where and when) certain historical facts. On the altered set of facts, he builds his mansion. It is a delicate architecture and he fills it with a haunting and sad music. He opens his story Oct. 6, 1888, three months before the fatal shootings. The story is told entirely from the viewpoint of the Crown Prince, and the novel is his journal, "the Common-place Book of the Archduke Rudolf of the House of Habsburg." Not until the epilogue do we have another voice, and it is then "An Afterword by His Excellency Alexander Count Hoyos, His Imperial Majesty's Ambassador to Berlin."

What marks the book is Mr. Arnold's restraint. The secret of true sophistication is, of course, restraint, and the secret of art is restraint; it is very close to the secret of life, or so we have been advised by wisemen from the Greeks to Ben Franklin. But certainly it is the secret of art, and certainly it's the secret of Arnold's literary success. For an undergraduate to assume the voice of a crown prince of Austria and maintain it for 287 pages, giving us court gossip, court conspiracies, conversations between emperor and empress, conversations between the prince and his mistress, arguments between him and his father, exchanges between cardinals and kings, and never strike a false note, is a first-rank accomplishment.

More remarkable is for him to turn his back on the obvious tricks that might be assumed to assure high sales for a novel in an age of unrestraint. The romance of Crown Prince Rudolf is a story of adultery. The adultery takes place off-stage; we find it discussed only in the confessional. Mr. Arnold has set an example to the host of aspirants from coast to coast who might look to prurience as a way to get attention.

That might be an obvious restraint to an artist, but Mr. Arnold does more; he resists the flamboyance of history for the subtlety of art. Let me close with one example. The Empress doted on her son, but she was smitten by a wanderlust, a sense of failure and distraction which kept her perpetually on the move. His death preceded hers. Her own story is remarkable but "The Archduke" is his story and not hers. So it is the Encyclopedia Britannica records of her death: "In 1898, Elizabeth was staying at Geneva. At about mid-day on Sept. 10, as she was walking to the lake intending to take the steamer on her way to Caux, she was attacked by an anarchist, Luigi Luccheni, who dealt her a wound from which she died in a few hours." But Arnold thus: "At Geneva, Switzerland, an Italian anarchist senselessly assassinated Elizabeth of Austria by plunging a knife into her already broken heart." Here is a novel every alumnus should read, a story beautifully and poignantly told.

B. C. CLUBS

During the past few weeks, Very Rev. Michael P. Walsh, S.J., University President has visited as many B.C. Clubs as his busy schedule permitted, and plans are being made to visit many other areas. Among those recently visited are:

ROCHESTER

One of the newest Alumni clubs, which hosted the Rector on April 10 at the Rochester Club. President Bill Gehan and his committee did a fine job which brought more than 60 alumni to this first club reception.

CENTRAL NEW YORK

The University Club of Syracuse was the scene of the Rector's reception on April 25. New officers have been elected for the year as follows: Bob White, '55, President; Miles Murphy, '54, Vice President; Jack Supple, '60, Treasurer and Jean (Harrington) Crowley, '58, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA

On April 23, the alumni in the City of Brotherly Love honored the Rector at a reception in the Philopatrian Club, with Randolph Wise, '35, Commissioner of Public Welfare for the city of Philadelphia, acting as Chairman. Club President Paul Duffey has been named to the Board of Directors, Delaware Valley Sign Association, after service as President for the past year.

BERKSHIRE COUNTY

New club president Ed Desaulniers reports that a successful Laetare breakfast was held at Shadowbrook, with Fr. James Healy, S.J. as speaker. The club held their Rector's reception on April 30 at the Lenox House, with Bill Broderick as Chairman.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

During a trip to the West Coast in January, Fr. Walsh met with the alumni of the Bay area at the Presidio Officer's Club. New President Alice Macdonough urges all alumni coming into the area to contact her for club news. Other new officers are Jack Cahill, '48, Treasurer and Bill O'Brien, '54, Secretary.

MAINE

At a business meeting in March, the club named Jim Gibbons its new President, who will be assisted by the other new officers: Mike Goulding, '49, Sheila Harris, '64 and Charles Lane, '60. The club hosted Fr. Walsh on May 10 at the famed Westcottage Inn, and plans are set for an outing to be held on June 17 at Camp Gregory.

In addition to those clubs mentioned above, Fr. Walsh also visited alumni clubs in Rhode Island, New York, Hartford, Fairfield County, New Jersey and Washington, D.C. for their annual Congressional Night on May 3rd.

ORANGE COUNTY

With the countrywide spread of alumni getting larger each year, another B.C. club has been formed on the West Coast. Ed Dugan, '53 CBA has put a great deal of effort into the founding of this club and they held their first event on April 19, a dinner dance at the Charter House near Disneyland.

DETROIT

President Dick Fitzpatrick reports that Treasurer John Clark has moved to San Jose, California and that Paul Sullivan has been named Controller of the Chemical & Industrial Products Division of Ford Motor Co. Dick and Paul Ryder returned to the Heights in April to attend the Admissions Seminar.

DOWNTOWN CLUB:

Before more than 600 alumni "founders" at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel, on April 12, Boston College President Very

Fr. Walsh visits San Francisco. Left to right: Mr. and Mrs. John Rucke, Fr. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neill and Alice Macdonough.

Rev. Michael P. Walsh, S.J. called the proposed establishment of the Downtown Club "a milestone in the history of Boston College." Plans were unveiled for the site of the Club, located on Hawkins St., immediately adjacent to the Kennedy Office Building in the government center. The Charlestown Savings Bank has agreed to the mortgage and as soon as legal details are cleared with the Boston Redevelopment Authority, renovation is expected to begin. Applications for charter membership may be obtained from Frederick Haynes, Treasurer, Room 303, 50 Federal Street, Boston.

SPORTS NEWS

by EDDIE MILLER '57

Director, Sports Publicity

Despite the rainiest April in many years, Jim Miller's Boston College football squad just recently ended a better than average 20 days of spring football practice.

It began on Tuesday, April 4 when Captain-elect Joe DiVito led a squad of 80 onto the practice gridiron of Commander Shea Field. It ended on Saturday morning, April 29 with an intra-squad scrimmage. Somehow Coach Miller managed to get the prescribed 20 days allowed despite cold, rain and snow.

Missing from last year's team are 15 lettermen including 1st unit men like Bob Hyland, Dick Collins, Tom Sarkisian and Mike O'Neil in the offensive line; Ed Lipson, Bill Stetz and Gordie Kutz in the defensive line; and defensive back Tom Carlyon and offensive halfback Paul Della Villa.

However, there are 27 lettermen returning to form the nucleus of the 80 man squad which includes 30 sophomores to be, several of whom promise to be outstanding. The squad can be broken down statistically a bit more: In addition to the 30 sophomores there are 26 juniors and 24 seniors; 15 ends (8 offensive, 7 defensive); 11 tackles (6 offensive, 5 defensive); 7 offensive guards; 5 offensive centers; 11 defensive linebacks; 5 quarterbacks; 9 offensive halfbacks; 3 offensive fullbacks; and 13 defensive backs.

Most prominent names among the offensive backs returning would be Brendan McCarthy, Terry Erwin, Dick DeLeonardis, Dave Bennett, John Kane, Joe DiVito, Joe Marzetti, and Dave Thomas. Jim Kavanagh, Barry Gallup, Len Persin and John Egan are the leading ends, while Mike Evans, Bill Ladewig, Jerry Ragosa, Kerry Horman, Ron Persuite, Doug Shepherd, Gary Andrachik, Dick Kroner, and Jim Garofalo are interior linemen of note. Rounding out the veterans returning are defensive backs John Salmon, Jim Grace, Al Giardi and Harry Pierandri.

Finally in the names to watch department are sophomores to be Bob Bouley at tackle, (he looks like he may be a chip off the old block and a little bigger than his famous father Gil), Dave McKay, Mondell Davis, Jim McCool, Pete Mattia and John Fitzgerald in the line; quarterback Mike Fallon, and halfbacks Joe Coppola, Jim Cotton, and Mike Johnson.

During spring drills Coach Miller and his staff concentrated on replacing the depleted interior offensive and defensive lines and worked on building as much depth here as possible. The quarterback, offensive end, and defensive backfield positions, all very much up in the air a year ago, are among B.C.'s strong center this year. A "new" Joe DiVito had an excellent spring and ran the 1st unit most of the way. Joe Marzetti worked at quarterback and as an offensive and defensive halfback too. He'll play somewhere and be a valuable asset too. Dave Thomas' right shoulder which was separated early last season and operated on gave him trouble most of the spring, and Dave's status was doubtful, while freshman quarterback, Mike Fallon, showed tremendous promise with outstanding passing, running and faking.

Our defensive end squad has developed nicely, too. Jim Kavanagh, the All-America track star who finished last season so brilliantly, concentrated on track, but he'll be out in September. Barry Gallup and John Egan followed up impressive sophomore seasons with fine spring performances. There are several excellent receivers among the offensive halfbacks too. Terry Erwin and Dave Bennett are proven pass catchers and Mike Johnson could be a great one.

Jim Kavanagh and Coach Gilligan are pictured checking final strategy before the start of the Decathlon Event at the Boston College Relays. Jim showed very well in this event, and Coach Gilligan feels that he has the potential to be one of the best in the college ranks today. Jim also throws the hammer, the discus and the shot, and is rated one of the best in the East in these events.

CAPT. BILLY NORRIS

Billy is one of the best all-around performers on the Boston College track team. He is the defending IC4A steeplechase champion, and also competes in the one- and two-mile runs.

Thus, B.C. will be a strong passing threat in '67. This will help Brendan Larry Jeffers is one of the best sprinters in B.C. track history. This season, he equalled the school 100-yd. record, with a 9.7 performance. He also turned in one of the best B.C. 440-yd. runs ever when he ran a 46.8 anchor on the mile relay team at the Penn Relays.

McCarthy and the running backs and should result in more ball control and less time spent on defense.

VETERAN BASEBALL COACH EDDIE PELLAGRINI ... now in his tenth season at Boston College, has directed the Eagles to a 5-1-2 record (as of May 1). This fine start has boosted his lifetime record at B.C. to 116-68-2.

Track

Bill Gilligan's track team trounced Boston University in its only dual meet of the outdoor season (the Northeastern meet was off due to inclement weather). The Eagles also showed well in B.C.'s second annual Relay Carnival on April 22. A nicely balanced Northeastern squad won team honors with 81 points, B.C. had 56 points, Connecticut was third with 46, Massachusetts and Holy Cross rounded out the final five with 42 and 36 points respectively.

The relays drew 18 New England Colleges and over 600 athletes competed in the colorful event. An added highlight this year was the first decathlon held in New England in several decades. Our own Jim Kavanagh sacrificed work on his specialties, the hammer and discus, to spread his time practicing on the gruelling decathlon.

Jim led in the first 9 events only to be nipped (6485 to 6405) to another outstanding all-around athlete in Jeff Bannister of the University of New Hampshire.

Record-setting times were run by the winning Eagle relay teams in the 440 and the sprint medleys. Bill Doherty, Jack Casey, Joe Kopka and Larry Jeffers combined for 0:42.5 440-yard relay, while Jeffers, Kopka, Casey and Captain Bill Norris teamed up for 3:25.6 sprint medley. The latter four also ran an excellent mile relay at the celebrated Penn Relays in 3:12.2.

Baseball

Eddie Pellagrini who said, "I can't remember an April as bad as this one in my 10 years coaching," was sporting at the end of April a pretty good record in spite of the weatherman.

The Eagles opened on April 4—before the Red Sox—and blasted M.I.T. 17-0. One week later on a frigid afternoon, they rallied in the 9th to tie Rhode Island 2-2 but the game was called after 10 innings because of the cold as much as the ensuing darkness.

B.C. had a scare but managed 2 runs in the 8th to edge Brandeis 2-1, topped Tufts twice 6-0 and 8-3, and tied B.U. 3-3. The only loss to date is a 6-3 setback at the hands of Northeastern.

At the end of April the record read 5 wins, 1 loss and 1 tie with 3 games postponed or cancelled due to rain and snow. The Harvard game has been rescheduled for May 5 but the Providence and Connecticut games have been cancelled.

Righthander Bill O'Brien has been the mainstay of the B.C. mound staff for the past two seasons. He likes to throw curve balls, and thanks to his outstanding control, has had an Earned Run Average of less than 2.00 over his varsity career.

Senior Bill O'Brien from Portland, Maine, has been the standout pitcher thus far (as he was last season). Bill had 4 of B.C.'s five victories including a sparkling one-hitter against Tufts and hadn't given up an earned run.

Shortstop Ed O'Neil is one of the quickest men on the basepaths in Eastern collegiate baseball. Coach Ed Pellagrini calls him "one of the best prospects I have had in a long time." Ed also covers plenty of ground in the field, and has been a real asset to the B.C. defense in his two varsity seasons.

Mike Finnell, a junior outfielder from Cape Cod, hit over .500 for the first 6 games and consistently delivered the big hit in the clutch.

Capt. Bill Kitley, B.C.'s lefthanded first sacker, is one of the team's best hitters. Bill is one of those players who can hit for a good average, while still belting out the long ball. He's also outstanding around the bag and rates as one of the team's best defensive players.

PARADE of CLASSES

THE OLD GUARD

We regret to record the death of William D. Murphy of 77 Waban Hill Road, Chestnut Hill on February 19. Bill was a graduate of Boston College High School and was a member of the track team at both schools. He graduated from the old College on James Street and was a faithful class member and a devoted Alumnus. Present at the funeral were: Rt. Rev. Bernard S. O'Kane '09, Pastor of St. Bernard's Parish, West Newton, Rt. Rev. Daniel F. Burke '11, Pastor of Infant Jesus Parish, South Brookline and Miah Falvey '11. Bill's late brother Tom was an Alumnus graduating in 1916. May they both rest in peace! Our sympathy goes out to his widow Mrs. Jane Murphy, his daughter Mrs. Elizabeth Joseph (New Rochelle '60) and William J. Jr. '64.

'14 JOHN S. KEOHANE 1147 Tremont St., Boston

Bill O'Sullivan's daughter Katherine is studying at the Graduate School for her Master's Degree in Spanish.

Father David Twomey, O.S.B., affiliated with St. Anselm's College in Manchester, New Hampshire, is a wheel-chair patient at the Demers Nursing Home, 466 Donald Street, Manchester, due to his fractured-hip accident last year.

Rev. Charles J. Dunn, S.J., nephew of our late lamented Class Mate Father Jack Joyce, has been made Vice President for Student Affairs at the College of the Holy Cross.

John Keohane's Nephew, Rev. John J. Geoghan (Holy Cross '57), has been assigned as an assistant to Rt. Rev. John A. York '21 at St. Bernard's Church in Concord.

'15 PHILIP J. BOND 18 Houston Street West Roxbury

Thomas F. Galvin spent his usual month in Florida this last winter. While in Miami he met Jackie Gleason who spotted him as a Bostonian who succumbed to the invitation: "Come on down." Tom also serves as a temporary teacher in the Boston schools.

John J. Walsh made a speedy and satisfactory recovery from eye surgery and is back in business full time.

Cornelius J. Merrigan was laid up with a slight heart attack last October. He was home in November with orders to take it easy.

George S. Hennessy's daughter, Helen, a professor of English at Boston University, has received a fifteen hundred dollar grant from B.U. to complete during the summer a book interpreting several of the longer poems of Wallace Stevens.

George J. Casey and his wife Lillian (Harrington) observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary, April 6, 1967. They are now confirmed Californians.

The Charles O'Hallorans of Savannah, Georgia, will observe their Golden Wedding Anniversary on August 15, 1967.

Speaking of anniversaries, let us not forget Rt. Rev. John J. Allston who on June 14, 1967 will observe his twentieth year as pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Quincy Point. Over the years his admiring prelates have fondly bestowed on him the nickname of "POP".

The Boston Sunday Herald Magazine of March 26, 1967 contained an excellent article on the 112-year history of the Immaculate Conception Parish on the Malden-Medford line. Our classmate Rt. Rev. Joseph J. Leonard was appointed pastor of this parish in 1954, his third pastorate. In 1960 he launched a drive for a new church and rectory. Ground was broken in 1962, and the new church and rectory were completed in 1963. It is the largest new church built in the archdiocese in the last forty years and serves 1,500 parishioners.

Words of wisdom, interesting particularly to educators, from our classmate, Dr. John F. Bradley in a letter written to your correspondent:

"It seems that all the educators in my family marry educators and, while education is not recognized as a contagious disease, I apparently became infected and have been spending some time with teenagers and young college students in an effort to help them to penetrate the veil between their teenage and adult lives. Student guidance at the high school level seems to stop at the door of the college. The high IQ's are urged to make good grades in high school in order to secure college acceptance. Once in college they have attained the only goal they know. A career goal is now necessary and in its absence we find drop-outs from freshman and sophomore at a rate ranging from forty to sixty percent. Half of these may be financial, but the balance in my experience are due to lack of direction. Since the first two years deal largely with the aesthetics, social studies, and cultural subjects, they are in an area in which the student may have no predilection or if he cannot identify their relationship to whatever future career he may eventually select, he feels that he is pursuing an inanity and the resultant sense of indirection results in a drop-out. If he were made aware of the remarkable contribution such studies would make to his ability to communicate in whatever career he selects, he would maintain a sense of direction and lose his feeling of futility. My concept of a pathetic individual is one who knows everything in his own field and nothing else."

'16 JAMES L. O'BRIEN 41 Pond Circle, Jamaica Plain

In the Fall issue of the Columbia College magazine there is a fine article on "The Changing World of Catholic Education" and the author has a quote from our own Father Casey in which he says, "Many priests continue to act as if nothing has happened in the last 50 years."

In these days when many people are thinking of retirement, Mons. Dalton works very hard as President of the Catholic Hospital Association.

We recently lost three of our beloved classmates, Jim Collins, Milo Burke and Gerry McCarthy and I know you will remember them in your prayers.

My son Richard, Class of '58, is now the B.C. Admissions Representative for the Greater Worcester area.

'17 THOMAS D. CRAVEN 107 Barrett Street, Needham

John Flynn before leaving for Florida made reservations for the class to observe its Fiftieth Anniversary at Alumni Hall on Friday, June 2. Details should be received from John before this number of Alumni News is received. It is expected that some who live at a distance are making plans to be with us on that occasion. We know that Fr. Joe Merrick, S.J. is coming from Baghdad, Diker Hoefling from Arizona, Jim Slattery from Cleveland and possibly Fr. Frank Caffrey, M.M. from Los Angeles.

Lactate Sunday Communion breakfast was attended by the smallest number from this class ever. Those in attendance: Dan Daley, Walter Durnan, Frank Heanue, Maurice Murphy, Ed Tobin and your humble scribe.

Hon. Daniel J. Gillen of Boston Municipal Court will be welcomed as an honorary member of the class. Dan, having graduated in 1913 from B.C. High School where he excelled in debating, entered the freshman class with us. He withdrew after a brief attendance due to the death of his father. His younger brother, the late Henry Gillen, a poet and journalist on the old Boston Post, was graduated in 1919. Over the years Dan has lived a busy life in public service and felt that he, having withdrawn from the college, was not one of us. Thanks to Nick Petrocelli, an old debating partner of Dan's, we have arranged for him to join us on our Golden Anniversary.

Fr. Maurice Dullea, S.J., captain of the victorious football team of 1916 which defeated H.C. 17-14, rounded up all the living members of the squad of fifty years ago for the Annual Dinner of the Varsity Club. Of the 49 members on the squad 23 were located and 12 attended the dinner. From this class Tom Craven and Jack McCarty were present. Pete McKenna was unable to attend.

Dr. Charley Smith has again taken to the sea in a freighter. Latest reports indicate that he is in India. It is expected that he will be home for the 50th Anniversary.

Frank Heanue, after a short spell of country living has realized that he is a city boy. He is now living across from Boston Common and high enough to have a view of the harbor. Although retired he has been called back by the Boston Globe for some special work.

Bo Mahoney reports that son Roland, Jr., a M/Sgt, US Army is still in Vietnam; that son Michael, a graduate student at the University of Wyoming majoring in American Studies, has applied for the Peace Corps and during the summer will work for the Boston Globe; that son John, a graduate of B.C. Law, is a practicing attorney and lives in Wellesley; that son Mark is with the American Viscose Div. of the giant FMC; that son Fr. Tom, S.S.C. is in a Columbian mission in California and that daughter Marie, now Mrs. Robert McCarthy, lives in Scituate. And in addition there are 14 grandchildren.

Sympathy to the family and prayers of the class for Charlie Cote who died on March 15th at Pearl River, New York. May he rest in peace.

Your correspondent enjoyed the Laetare Sunday reunion with Clarence Greene and Frank Frazier, both of whom are retired.

Had a most interesting letter and family history from Tom Reynolds who practices law in Chicago and lives in Winnetka, Illinois.

Tom has 6 children, 2 boys and 4 girls. From the following history you will gather that the Reynolds family tree is in the process of encompassing the Mid-West:

Tom, the oldest boy, Georgetown A.B., Michigan, L.L.B., attorney partner in his father's firm — Winston, Strawn, Smith and Patterson; part owner and Vice President of the old Boston (now Atlanta) Braves. Nine children, lives in Winnetka, Illinois.

Anne, A.B. Manhattanville, married to Rushton W. Skakel (Georgetown), Vice President of Great Lakes Carbon Co. — brother of Ethel Skakel Kennedy. Husband is also part owner of the Atlanta Braves. Seven children, lives in Greenwich, Conn.

John, A.B. Georgetown, L.L.B. Northwestern — attorney — Los Angeles County Public Defender's Trial Staff. 4 Children. Sheila, A.B. Manhattanville. Husband, Robert L. Berner, A.B. (Notre Dame) L.L.B. Harvard Law; partner Baker, McKenzie and Hightower—International attorneys. 5 Children. Lives in Winnetka, Illinois.

Susan, A.B. Manhattanville. Husband, John W. Sullivan, (Georgetown), President of Skill Corp. and also part owner of Atlanta Braves. 4 children. Lives in Winnetka, Illinois.

Mary Ellen, A.B. Manhattanville. Religious of the Sacred Heart. Now teaching at the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Chicago, and doing graduate studies at Northwestern. Will receive her Cross in Rome in about two years.

Tom has informed me that he intends to be with us on our Golden Anniversary in 1968. He would certainly appreciate hearing from any of the classmates.

19 FRANCIS J. ROLAND
10 Homewood Rd., West Roxbury

Father "Joe" Dailey O.P. is currently stationed at Saint Rose' Priory, Springfield, Kentucky. He would like to hear from his classmates. On June 14, 1967 Father "Joe" will be forty-four years a priest. He writes that Father John Grace O.P. is assigned to Saint Raymonds Church, Providence, Rhode Island. How about dropping a note to each?

"Bill" O'Brien has retired as principal of the Daley Junior High School, Lowell after forty-one years of service in the Lowell School Department. "Bill" and Mrs. O'Brien recently travelled to Florida to visit their married daughter and family. Many happy years of leisure, Bill!

At the Annual Dinner on February 12 the Varsity Club honored members of the 1916 football squad. Our class was represented by Father "Ed" Douglas S.J., Harold Fagan, "Bill" Dowling and Frank Horrigan. Fifty years ago—when there was a one platoon system and no free substitution! Other 1916 Varsity Footballers honored on the same occasion were Father Maurice Dullea S.J., Tommie Dee, "Joe" White, John McCarthy, Charles Tierney, John Sargent, Tom Craven and the man with the magic toe, Jimmie Fitzpatrick.

The aforesaid Harold Fagan, genial and able professor of Chemistry at the Heights for forty-three years, retired in 1963. Over the years Harold had the pleasure of attending the Commencements of five of his children from Boston College. This is a challenge to the entire alumni body—can any other member boast of more than five of his children as B.C. Alumni? Congratulations to Harold, also to the five.

We regretfully announce the death of John Gardner on November 4, "Johnnie" was a quiet, constant and ever loyal member of the class and the alumni — always present at class and alumni gatherings — we shall miss him. Our deep condolences to his widow, Marie, and his family. May his saintly soul rest in Eternal Peace!

"We extend our deep sympathy to "Pat" Tangney and his family upon the death of Mrs. Tangney on March 25. We pray that God will grant her Eternal Rest and Pat and his family the grace of His Consolation."

Word was just received that our Monsignor "Bill" Harrington, Pastor of Holy Name, Fall River has tendered his resignation as Pastor, but will continue to serve as Supervisor of St. Patrick's Cemetery there. Msgr. "Bill" headed Holy Name for 11 years, after having been the first pastor at St. Thomas More in Somerset.

20 J. ROBERT BRAWLEY
33 Pomfret Street, West Roxbury

Father Russell T. Haley, ordained in 1925, has just retired after his many years of labor in the vineyard. Father Russ' last Pastorale was at St. Mary's parish in Wrentham. Father Ed Sullivan, the Circus Priest has been made Pastor of Star of the Sea parish in Scituate being transferred from All Saints parish in Roxbury. John and Peg McMorrow are back from Florida. While down there they spent a pleasant day with Dr. Neil O'Connor at a Plantation, reliving the old days with Neil and Leo Aicardi.

21 JEREMIAH W. MAHONEY

In attendance at the Laetare Breakfast on March 5 were Father Frank Sullivan, S.J., Jack Burke, Linus Callen, Joe Cusick, Arthur Donovan, Bill Dowling, Steve Griffin, Frank Hannon, John McGrath, Henry McInerney, Ralph Monks, Hugh O'Regan and your Note Editor.

Our sympathy to the family of Lincoln Lynch, who passed away on January 28, 1967.

Ralph Monks, who celebrates in June the 50th Anniversary of his graduation from Brockton High School "commuted" to Boston for the Annual Retreat of the Catholic Alumni Sodality.

Sadly missing this year for the first time from Laetare Communion Sunday at the College and from the Retreat of the Catholic Alumni Sodality was our former Secretary, Gordon Irons.

We regret to learn of the death of our "Class Beadle" Ed Breau on January 4, 1967.

We regret to announce the death on April 3, 1967 of Charlie McCabe, a veteran inspector for the Registry of Motor Vehicles, who was associated with Morgan Ryan when Morgan was Registrar. We recall that Charlie re-joined our class after a spell in the Marines in World War I, in which he sustained very serious injuries.

There is no news, either good or bad, of the Class of 1922. We might report that the 45th anniversary committee chairmanned by William Sheehan and William Cady, held an organization meeting in February, formulated plans for the alumni day celebration, and came up with several interesting events, most important a Class Communion Breakfast and Mass to be held prior to Alumni Day. The committee was composed of Charles

Dear Alumnus:

It is my great pleasure to invite you to return once again to the Heights for the outstanding weekend program described on the opposite page.

Last year Alumni Weekend was a huge success. The tremendous response from all Alumni, both young and old indicates that many more will attend the various events scheduled for this year. The Alumni Board and the Alumni Staff have been working and planning to assure the continued success of this weekend.

Father Rector extends his most cordial welcome to all to return to the Heights and renew old acquaintances with faculty, classmates and friends.

We shall look forward to seeing you and know you will enjoy the activities which have been planned. Please make use of the application below and reserve your tickets now.

Most sincerely,

Dick Schoenfeld

Collins, Rev. John Connors, Frank Daly, Rt. Rev. James Doyle, Rt. Rev. Cornelius Sherlock, Rt. Rev. Leonard McMahon, Arthur Tierney, Lawrence Curtin, Nat Hasenfus, and Ray Dragan. The class received reflected glory in the newly-created Knight of Malta, Judge William Torphy of Fall River, a leader now as he was in his days on the Heights. Tom Mahan has recovered from his recent serious illness and is back at his duties at Newman School. John Norton is happy at his work at Head of the Humanities Department at Massasoit Community College.

'23 MRS. FRANCIS L. FORD

9 McKone Street, Dorchester

Laetare Sunday was as usual, a very pleasant gathering at the Heights. Among our classmates to be on hand were Dr. Len Morrissey, Gaynor Wellings, Louis Tracy, Walter Dimmock, Dr. Ed. Burke and his son Ed. Jr., Connie O'Connor and yours truly. As is always the case, it is most enjoyable to see the boys, too bad more of you could not attend. Maybe next year?

After the affair Walter Dimmock and Gaynor Wellings went out to visit Tony Comerford at the Veterans' Hospital in West Roxbury. Tony was in the hospital for almost two months, having undergone serious surgery. He is at home again and doing nicely. When I talked to him he mentioned how he enjoyed having the boys visit him. We are all hoping that Tony will be in top shape before too long.

Several of our regular attendants at the annual breakfast were not on hand, i.e., Cecil McGoldrick was on a junket to Florida and then cruised on the Anenida over to Nassau. Ted Garrity and his wife were vacationing in Florida, and Joe Crane had an accident and injured his shoulder, and is well on the mend now.

Peter Daniel Crane, Joe Crane's youngest son has qualified for Boston College High School and Joe is delighted. Daughter Ellen is at Fontbonne Academy and Hugh is at Harvard.

From Matt Butler, I learned that he has moved back to West Roxbury, and likes it very much. Matt has been on the sick list as well as his wife, who has had two coronary attacks, but is well on the mend now.

I have just learned that Ed Dullea has been seriously ill, having had surgery, and has been under medical attention since November. We all certainly hope his full recovery will be very soon. His young son Bill is a B.C. freshman, daughter, Catherine is in training for a nurse at the Lawrence Memorial Hospital and Morris is at the University of Rhode Island Graduate School of City Planning, is married and has one child.

George Olesen doesn't have too much to report on—says he's feeling so-so, and that he is the proud grand-daddy of two lovely children—wanted to be remembered to the rest of the classmates.

From Art Kane's wife, Helen, I received a very nice letter saying they love Florida (Ft. Lauderdale) and "have no desire to return to your chilly winters". Their youngest son, Richard, will graduate from B.C. Business school this June—their five other sons all graduated from Holy Cross.

From Al Lashway's wife, I learned that they have returned to Connecticut from California. Al has not been at all well and is presently in a nursing home. We all send our best wishes to Al and hope he will be well soon again.

I called John Flavin and John was sorry that he didn't have any news of any consequence regarding family or self, but he did say "Please remember me to all the Gang".

After spending the greater part of the winter at Port Charlotte in Florida, Luke Supple and his wife have returned to chilly New England. We are happy to hear that Luke is feeling better. Keep up the good work.

Frank Hickey certainly has a family to be proud of—his daughter Casandra will receive her Doctorate in Science Administration from Boston University this June. She is presently teaching Science at Medford High School. Ramonda received her Masters Degree from Tufts University and is teaching Science at the Lincoln Jr. High School and Francis Jr. received his Masters Degree from Tufts.

I am in touch with Myles McSweeney. He has been improving constantly and with the coming of warm weather hope he will be able to get out and around soon.

Your secretary has recently retired and will be taking off on a trip to Europe for a change of scenery. I'll be back long before the next issue is due, but won't you please keep me in mind with news of yourselves and families and send it along to me.

'24 JOSEPH L. TRIBBLE

128 Rockland Ave., Malden

Although he retired two years ago Jim Walsh still maintains a keen interest in life. Last June he received a Gold Diploma from the Cardinal at the BC High Graduation as a member of the Fiftieth Anniversary Class. James, Jr., his Jesuit son, received his AB, Cum Laude from BC in '66 and is now continuing his studies at the Fordham Graduate School. At the same time Mary Lou received her AB "with distinction in her field" from Emmanuel and is now teaching Mathematics at East Junior High in Braintree. Also, June saw Robert graduate from BC High. He is now a Freshman in Business Administration at BC.

Another Jesuit son, Roger Saldarini's Anthony is at Yale on a Fellowship in "Near East Languages and Literature". He is doing research in ancient biblical works in Hebrew, Coptic and Aramaic.

Les Hourigan and Catherine still reside in Winthrop. Les is still President and Treasurer of Underwriters Reports, Inc. Their daughter, Mary, a graduate of Marymount College, Arlington, Va. is presently employed at the Boston Globe Advertising Department.

Even though Joe Kelly and his wife just happily celebrated their 26th Anniversary in Tucson, Arizona, they still keep a New England tie. Their son, John, who gets his AB from U. of Arizona this year, married Carol Dailey from Brewster, Mass. over a year ago and have just made our Joe a grandfather. John is returning to the Cape to teach this coming Fall. Our sympathy to Carol, whose brother, Skip, was just killed in Vietnam. Anthony Joseph is currently on active duty with the Marines. He has two years at Arizona U. under his belt. Joe has an 18 year old daughter graduating from Villa Carondelet in Tucson this June.

Father Felix Norbut, 15 years Pastor of St. George's, Norwood, and 4 years Pastor of St. Casimir's, Brockton, has just retired.

Like the rest of us, John Browne doesn't find home in Belmont so full when he returns to it each night from Mass. Engineering Headquarters in Framingham, but Alice is there and well and John, III, who graduates from Matignon High this June. Patricia Ann is now Sr. M. Chrysostom on the faculty of Regis College. Robert, Business Office Mgr. for the Telephone Company in Montpelier, Vt. will move nearer home with a promotion to the General Office in Boston come May, and SP-5 Richard is with the Headquarters Co. Army Engineers in Heidelberg, Germany. Semi-retired during the winter, Art Dowd leads a happy life in Kingston, Mass. From April to Thanksgiving he gets a great kick out of working at the Plymouth Plantation, the Replica of early Pilgrim life in Plymouth. He has had three years practice so will be ready to take you on if you visit him there this summer.

Now that he has retired Gene Campbell is planning to move from Newtonville to South Natick. 3 grandchildren by Eugene, Jr. BC '53, 3 by daughter Alice, Regis '54. Gene presided as Toastmaster at the 43rd Annual Communion Breakfast on Low Sunday. Present were Jim Walsh, Dr. John Murphy, Roger Saldarini, Joe Tribble, Dr. Chris Duncan, Tom Colleran, Syl Connolly, Jack Pyne, John Healey, Dr. Walter Carroll, Frank Kelly, Martin Murray, Jim Kellahe, Nick Corbett, Jr. John Murphy, S.J., Ed Murphy and Ed Barry. The "Duncan Saga" provided an intensely interesting, if vicarious, tour for those present, as Chris described the two car journey of himself, Virginia, five sons and three daughters-in-law from Vienna to Basel, Rome, Oberammergau, Munich, Coblenz, Heidelberg and Liege, including an Audience with the Pope. Having missed publication in the last issue, I must call special attention to the honor Chris received last June in being awarded the McKenney Medal by the Alumni Association as the outstanding alumnus of the year.

After 41 years teaching in the Boston High Schools, Ray Gemmel retired last June. Harriet and Ray live in West Roxbury. Ray Jr. AB '65, St. Francis College, Bideford, Maine is now in the Navy. Jeanne, AB '66, St. Mary's College, Hookset, N.H. is now teaching in the Bigelow School, South Boston. Frank Kilcoyne is still going strong as President of Brooklyn College, the largest Liberal Arts College in the country, 20,500 undergrads, 4,500 graduate students, and a full time faculty of 800. Rev. Francis P. Jr. was ordained in the Diocese of Brooklyn last May. He has an AB from Cathedral College, Brooklyn and an MA from St. Michael's College, Winooski, Vt. Frank's wife, Eleanor, has just retired from her post as Professor and Chairman of the Department of Health and Physical Ed. at Brooklyn College.

Jim Grady still runs Management Training Courses for The American University at Washington. His wife, Francis, assists him. They have a town-house workshop on Lake Reston, Virginia. Son John receives his AM at Yale this year. Married, with 2 sons, he will do graduate work in Anthropology at Brandeis.

Dr. Jim Brosnan has been elected for a three-year term as the Massachusetts representative to the Board of Governors of the American College of Gastroenterology. Jim is a fellow of the American College of Gastroenterology and of the American College of Physicians. He is also Chief of the Department of Medicine at St. Vincent Hospital and is associated with the Fallon Clinic.

Pray for the souls of Frank Chadbourne, Michael Connolly, Walter Kelliher, and Tim Herlihy.

'25 WILLIAM ARTHUR REILLY 14 Arborway, Jamaica Plain

Another loyal classmate has passed away. Max Kowalski, one of our star philosophers in undergraduate years, died suddenly on February 24. Max was Chairman of the Board of Assessors in Salem, Mass., with 28 years of service on the board, and 36 years as a practicing attorney in Salem. He was also director of the Carmelite Retreat House, Andover, and a member of the Massachusetts Bar Assn. and St. John's Society, Polish-American Citizens Club and the Polish Falcons Society, all of Salem. He leaves a wife, Chessie (Rybicki) Kowalski; two brothers, Alex, assistant registrar of motor vehicles in the Beverly office, and Chester J. both of Salem; four sisters, Mrs. Alphonse Drankowski of Salem, Mrs. Ray Jesuit of Andover, Mrs. A. Joseph Jones of Wenham and Mrs. Joseph Drankowski of Santa Monica, Calif.

Received a letter from Tom McGann, formerly of Concord, Mass., now Treasurer of the Dolan Steel Company, 810 Union Avenue, Bridgeport, Conn. Tom, as you may remember, was noted for his scholarship and his dexterity as a soda clerk. Any time you need to need a strip or sheet of steel to be processed, phone Conn. 335-8173 and ask for Tom.

Sorry to report that John Corcoran is on sick leave from the Brookline School System where he has served as headmaster of the High School for so many years. Almost ran down Tom Manning one Sunday morning on Huntington Ave. He doesn't know yet who it was that was waving to him after just skimming his toes as he stepped off the curb. Tom may be seen any day at the Library in Copley Square where he is in charge of exhibits. Fred Mahony spent a few months at his winter home in Southern Pines, N.C. returning in Mid-April to consider starting his second high rise apartment building on Mission Hill. Met Jack McDonald's brother one day and he reported Jack is still getting to bed early nights resting up from his early struggles to amass the first million. Saw Gene Groux, Al Hyland, Tony Julian, Dan J. Lynch and Joe Kozlowsky at the March Clover Club Dinner.

The sympathy of the class was extended to Neil O'Callahan on the death of his mother (at age 94) on March 10. Our classmate Clayton Haley is a neighbor of the O'Callahan family in Cambridge. Neil is still located in Philadelphia.

Steve Patten was among those on a jury selecting the best 10 local athletes since 1930. Had they gone back to 1925 Steve would have been on the list as would have Sonny Foley our leading all around—all time great.

All the recent talk about the secularization of Webster College, Missouri and its President reminds us that years ago our George Donovan was President of that Institution.

In April your correspondent had the happy privilege of being the guest of Bernie Hawley and Frank Flanagan at the Statler Hilton Hotel in N.Y. City. Both appeared to be in fine health and bubbling over with interest in classmates. Jim Tobin, and Julian McGrath are prominent in the Metropolitan area and Joe Beattie our preeminent representative in the field of social work visits from Detroit from time to time. Bernie is Manager of Newstand Sales for all the Hearst Magazines throughout the country and Frank Flanagan looks almost the same as he did as a protégé of Fritz Kreisler in years gone by. He has a Stradivarius, and a Guarneri violin of great value as mementos of his work in the profession and he continues daily to play and furnish musical units for functions in the N.Y. area. His son Peter, a graduate of St. Bonaventure and Fordham Law School passed the bar with flying colors (gold and maroon).

'26 WILLIAM J. CUNNINGHAM 186 Lakeshore Road, Brighton Apt. 3

We needed 42 to celebrate 41 but we did it on February 17th at the Parker House when 42 of the clan had a fine evening celebrating our 41st anniversary, under the chairmanship of Dr. Bob O'Doherty. Fr. Mike Walsh honored us and Dr. Bob particularly, for his work with the Jesuit community at the Heights, by speaking to us. 'Twas a most pleasant evening, we assure you. Now to a few odds and ends and, speaking of ends, you gentlemen are the living end when it comes to providing bits of news about your old associates. We did say old, didn't we?

At Laetare Sunday we saw but Dr. Bob, Tom Coakley, Paul Sullivan and his attractive wife, Charlie Schroeder and Joe "Pop" Regan et ux. Joe informs that Frank McOwen is now the Director of Audiometer Testing for the Somerville School System and that Frank's wife teaches in one of the three schools under Popsy's direction and guidance. Charlie Schroeder and Grace enjoyed a Queen Mary cruise to Nassau in February; the Dutchman did a good job in representing the School Committee of Boston in negotiations with the Teachers' Union this spring.

Enter a note of sorrow as we report with regret the death of J. Earl Clinton in January. Our fine old center and second baseman had taught in Framingham for over thirty years and had been a member of its Park Commission for ten years. He had been ill for only a short time. Earl had done graduate work at Notre Dame, worked under Cardinal Hayes in New York, had coached and taught in Framingham and even done a hitch in World War II. Our sympathy to wife Dorothy, and to his eight sons and his daughter.

We are all proud of the fine job Superior Court Justice Neil Moynihan did in handling the DeSalvo case, that of the so-called Boston Strangler. He and Evelyn have one son married, another to graduate from St. Louis University Medical School this June and their daughter is still in school.

Our B.C. athletic teams had a fine winter season; how the Snooker gets the mileage out of those boys! Bob Daley's son Billy helped Snooks as assistant coach this season. Cous's bucket dunkers did a wonderful job and gave the college some great advertising, too, going as far as they did in the NCAA's, but there are those who feel that the work of the B.C. team in the G.E. College Bowl series was perhaps the best advertising of all. They were positively astonishing.

Frank Smith has retired from his old job and is now Assistant Clerk of Court—Suffolk Superior, Criminal; forgot that Jake had a law degree. Paul Sullivan is a civilian employee at the Navy Purchasing Office, in the Fargo building and nowhere near retiring yet, contrary to recent rumor. Capt. Tom Herlihy, USN retired, is now Supply Co-ordinator for the Mass. General Hospital, an excellent adaptation of mature skills. Met John McMahon and Tom Coakley, school principals both, at an Emmanuel College dinner in February. Big John still summers in Dennisport. And some one told me that Dr. Bob O. got away from office pressures for a nice Bermuda vacation, right after our dinner. Rose and I went to Rome during the April vacation, visiting both Florence and Naples while there; only Rosemary left home and she graduates in June from Framingham State. See you at the Alumni Week festivities and how about a vote for your old scribe for Alumni Director? Be seeing you.

'27 JOHN J. BUCKLEY 20 Dell Ave., Hyde Park

Present at the Alumni Communion Breakfast on Laetare Sunday, March 5, were Pres. Francis X. Sullivan, John Costello, Jack Dempsey, Jim Walsh, Luke McCloskey, Joe McKenney, Judge Jeremiah Sullivan, Tom Coughlin, Vin O'Connell, Martin Tierney, and Jack Buckley.

Fr. Daniel Linchane, S.J., world famous geophysicist, was one of recipients of Mayor Collins' Boston Medals for Distinguished Service awarded on the occasion of the 1967 Boston Winterfest.

Tom Heffernan was on the Winterfest committee representing the Boston School Committee.

Jim Walsh's daughter Dorothy will enter Emmanuel College, her mother's Alma Mater, in the fall.

Jack Dempsey's son, Jack Jr., has completed basic military training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Vin O'Connell will visit this summer on the Queen Mary to visit the British Isles and points east.

Jerry Sullivan has three grandchildren.

THE ALUMNI

Son Jay is Clerk of the Cambridge Superior Court. Daughter Nancy is with the Chase National Bank, New York.

Fr. Bernard Fiekers, S.J. is on sabbatical leave from his duties as Head of the Chemistry Department at the College of the Holy Cross. He is studying at the University of Bonn in West Germany.

Fred Gannon of Long Island, New York, has recovered from a recent illness and plans to resume the quest for the elusive par on some of the famous Long Island golf courses.

Luke McCloskey's presence at the Boston Garden on the night of the B.A.A. games revived memories in the minds of the old timers of the days when Luke, Joe McKenney, Joe Ingoldsby, and Bill McKillop were bringing truck glory to the Maroon and Gold.

Bill Ohrenberger's steady and steadfast direction of the Boston schools is helping to bring peace between the School Committee and the State Board of Education, as well as much needed funds to the City of Boston.

It is 42 years ago this spring since your correspondent with Paul O'Donnell and Dan Noonan made the trek southward in a fleet of chauffeur driven Cadillacs to cheer the 1925 baseball team, especially the players from the Class of 1927: Jap Finnegan, Dinny McNamara, Joe McKenney, Tubber Conin, Sam Malone, Lefty Hooban, Steve Bridey, and student manager Vin Carolan. Mr. Noonan, well known connoisseur of fine foods, had reservations about the cuisine at Villanova College, and Paul O'Donnell, Boston fashion plate and pianist, was critical of the sartorial tastes of the Georgetown men although that didn't prevent him from borrowing their butterfly bowties and multi-colored socks. The three of us plunged into Brooklyn high society on our way south. This was made possible by a letter of entree written by the original Boston playboy and man-about-town, Ike Tondorf.

In 1926 the writer made the trip with Gene Plociennik and Ed Becherer of the Class of 1928. On the way home we experienced the delightful hospitality of the sheriff of a charming community known as Rising Sun, Maryland. Never was a rising sun more welcome in Rising Sun than the one that rose the morning after our short sojourn. At the first gleam of daybreak the gracious sheriff unlocked the cells, treated us to some strong coffee served in tin mugs, and bestowed on us his parting benediction with an "On your way, bums!" I remember saying to the lads at the time, "Forsan et haec olim meminisse iuvabit."

'28 MAURICE J. DOWNEY
15 Dell Avenue, Hyde Park

The tragic and untimely death, in mid-December, of our popular class correspondent, John M. Barry, has been noted with regret by the many groups who had the extreme good fortune to work closely with him. To us, his classmates, he was a willing and productive worker in every cause concerned with the enhancement of Alma Mater; to the faculty and pupils of Brighton High School he was an inspiring, self-sacrificing and dedicated teacher; to his colleagues in the field of journalism he was a crusading editor who never avoided controversy when he believed himself to be in the right; to his family he was both a loving husband and a devoted father; to all who knew him, Jack Barry was a loyal friend. For many years to come he will be mourned and missed.

We suffered another great loss, also in mid-December, when John Earl Clinton of Framingham died in a Boston hospital. Earl will be long remembered as an outstanding college athlete, a high-ranked football official, a very capable educator and a respected community leader. To his wife Dorothea and to his wonderful family of six sons and one daughter we offer our heartfelt sympathy and prayerful remembrances.

At this year's Laetare Sunday Communion Breakfast our class was very well represented. Listening attentively to every word spoken by Father Rector as he explained the many educational changes that are taking place on the Heights were: Charlie Driscoll, Dan Driscoll and his son Paul, George Corcoran, Jack Ryder, Dr. Joseph Lynch, John Kelleher, Jack Doherty, Luke Doyle, Michael Gilarde, John Halligan, Ken Minehan, Frank A. Murphy, Pat Tompkins, Arthur Tuohy, Jim Daly and Maurice Downey.

Rev. William J. Casey, S.J., still remembered for the stirring and logical perorations he used to deliver while debating in French on the intercollegiate level, now occupies the important post of Religious Superior at Holy Cross College.

James F. Daly, always a progressive educator, is now in full charge of the expanding data-processing department at the Jeremiah E. Burke High School.

Dr. John E. O'Laughlin, historian, author, and lecturer, has joined the professorial staff at Emmanuel College.

Congratulations are in order for John F. Martin who has recently been named Principal of Weymouth High School. A recognized authority in the field of secondary education, John served for many years with distinction as Principal of Central Junior High School in the same town.

Attorney Edward F. O'Brien has abandoned his fruitful acres in Sharon in favor of a hill-top site in Marshfield which furnishes him with a panoramic view of the Atlantic Ocean. Eddie and Mary are looking forward to that day in June when their talented son, Robert, the holder of a Ph.D. in nuclear physics, will be ordained in the chapel at Weston College. While working for his doctorate, Bob had the unique distinction of being allowed to participate in several top-secret projects sponsored by the federal government.

Again this year, Michael Gilarde was a member of the committee planning for the annual dinner dance of the B.C. High Alumni which will be held at McElroy Commons on June 16. Last year Mike was the energetic and efficient general chairman of this social fixture and the many who attended will tell you that never have they spent a more enjoyable evening.

Reliable reports have it that Alan O'Farrell, who was in sick bay over the Christmas holidays is now on the road to full recovery and is edging to return to his top administrative post in the Boston Postal Department.

ALUMNI WEEKEND

June 2 - 5

Buffer Supper, Friday, 7 PM

Pops Concert, Saturday, 3 PM

Champagne Dance, Saturday, 7 PM

'29 COL. TOM McGRATH, Pres.
Chestnut St., Concord
GEORGE DONALDSON, Secy.
30 Blackman Rd., Canton

Thanks to Dr. Jim Hennessey, a magnificent Eagle with seven foot wing spread will look down on our next class dinner at Alumni Hall. Jim presented it to BC last week. Father Ed Hogan, S.J. sends best wishes to all '29 from the Holy Land. The Florence flood missed him by five blocks.

Bob Hughes and Gene McLaughlin as class chairmen got a good turnout at the Laetare Sunday Communion Breakfast. There were several wives and sons present. Hope next year there will be more.

Ed Groark wrote from Philadelphia where he is in Insurance with good wishes and a check for the BC Development Fund. At the BC Downtown Club Founders' Dinner on April 12th, our class was represented by Barr Dolan, Bill Flynn, Bob Hughes, Ed Lee, Henry Leen, Paul Markey, Tom McGrath, Bill O'Leary, Jim Riley, Vin Roberts, Leo Shea and yours truly. We hope that more '29ers will get behind this long overdue project. Phil Rynn returns from Europe next week. Where is all the news?

'30 JOHN F. DWYER
45 Belvoir Road, Milton

In attendance at the Boston College Alumni Association Laetare Sunday Communion Breakfast were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Lohan, Charles F. Murphy, Bill Mulcahy, Ed Kelleher, T. Donald Robinson, Jim Reagan, John E. Hurley, Harold Kelley, Tom Conlan, Dr. Joe Cotter, Dr. Garrett Sullivan, Joe Whitehead, Tom Connors, Al McCarthy, John Grandfield, Jim Brabazon and John Dwyer.

On a Spring trip to Jamaica, B.W.I., Jim Reagan had a pleasant visit with Fr. Neal Donahue, S.J. in nearby Kingston where he supervises five parishes in the mountains. Fr. Neal extended a cordial invitation to his classmates to visit him.

Congratulations to Paschal Greco upon his recent appointment as manager of the Somerville branch office of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. Pat had been assistant manager and has been associated with the Somerville branch since his graduation in 1930.

'31 JOHN P. BARRY
370 Chestnut Hill Ave., Brookline

Laetare Sunday found the Casses, the LaJoies, Dr. Bud Gorman and son, Tom Crosby, Dick Ryan, Dick Fitzpatrick and Paul Eaton at the Mass and Breakfast.

We regrettably announce the death of Tom Foley on March 10.

Tom Crosby is President of Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children.

When is President Ryan going to organize a get-together?

When is somebody — but somebody going to call me or write me with some class notes?

'32 JOHN P. CONNOR
24 Crestwood Circle, Norwood

At the Lactare Sunday Communion Breakfast the following classmates attended: Tom Connelly, Phil Albano, Ed Gallagher, Harry Downes, Walter Drohan, Ed Hurley, Ed Denmore, Bill Cannon, Jim Heggie, Fred Maier, Joe Andrews, Cliff Cashen, Larry Spellman, John Callahan, Will Connor, Jerry Kelly, John McDonald, Joe Wilson, Joe Heron, Emil Romanowski, Dr. Tony Vanana, John Connor and our "man of the year", Peter Quinn, Alumni President.

Phil Albano's son who graduated from B.C. in '65 is in the Lay Apostolate.

We are all deeply saddened at the recent passing away of our beloved classmate Allan Byrne who died April 10. Al, Vice-President of Whitney Bros. Building Products, Inc. of Boston, left a wife, one son and a grandchild.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Daniel F. Shallo for many years Pastor of St. Louis Parish in Fall River, has been promoted to Pastor of Holy Name Parish in Fall River. Cliff Cashen is now with the Mass. Transit Administration in the computer dept.

Msgr. Vincent Mackey was featured in a Traveler headline article for his role as counselor and #1 fan of the Kansas City Chiefs during their push towards the AFL championship and the final game in the "Super Bowl": From the Patriots: "wait 'till next year."

'33 PHILIP McNIFF
101 Waban Hill Ave., Chestnut Hill

Condolences are extended to the family of Dr. Tom Callahan. Tom was a graduate of Tufts Medical School. During his career as a medical researcher and biochemist, he was connected with research programs at Boston College and Harvard.

Also remember in your prayers John H. McLaughlin's son, Mark, who was killed in action in Vietnam while serving with the Marines. In addition to his parents, he leaves four brothers and five sisters.

Dick McGivern reported that the following were present at this year's Laetare Breakfast: Henry Fitzgerald, with his wife and son; John Desmond and his wife; Bill Ryan, with his son Paul, a student at B.C. High; John Brogham; Jim Foley who has a son at B.C. and one at B.C. High; Francis X. Mulligan; Charlie O'Brien who has a son at Shadowbrook; Charlie Quinn; Dr. Tom Jones; John Moran; Ray Callen whose son is getting a Ph.D. in chemistry at Notre Dame; and Denny Ryan.

Dennis Ryan, Quincy District Court Clerk, was the first recipient of the Quincy Fraternal Order of Eagles' "Liberty Under Law Award." The citation noted that "He was unanimously selected for this honor because of his many years of continuous contributions to the community as a citizen, lawyer and court administrator. He personifies the essence and spirit of the Liberty Under Law Award."

John "Bucky" Warren is the new president of the Boston College Varsity Club.

Cornelius Dalton is now Managing Editor of the Boston Traveler.

'34 REV. JOHN A. SAUNDERS
St. Agatha's Rectory
432 Adams Street, Milton

Sincere thanks to all for the excellent response to our appeal for class dues. Almost 100% return. (The few delinquents take notice). Many interesting comments came with the returns. Jim Deary reports "Still with F.B.I. in New Haven. My children are grown, 3 boys in college, my daughter a junior in high school. Say "hello" to all of our classmates. Hope earnestly to see you all next time." Lenahan O'Connell informs us, in addition to being president of Board of Trustees of Boston Public Library and Trustee of Museum of Fine Arts, he is also director — Judge advocates Ass'n, Director, Massachusetts Civic League, (all non paying). I find that Herbert A. Kenny, Editor for the Arts and Book Editor of the Boston Globe, has had two books of poetry published in the past three years: "Twelve Birds" and "Suburban Man." In the Fall, Pantheon Press will publish his "Dear Dolphin," a prose narrative, that promises to be one of the outstanding Books of the year for children of all ages. Frank Noonan happy to inform us, that he and Mary are now grandparents twice and that Frank Jr. is in junior class at Alma Mater, C.B.A. Monsignor Russ Davis can be proud of his work in Walpole, The Blessed Sacrament Parish of which he is Pastor, has a new sixteen room school, Convent and Auditorium. The Church and Rectory, are renovated, plus, a magnificent Choir, boys and men, 50 strong. It was nice to hear from Bob Toland all the way from San Francisco, where he is with the V.A., and from Dr. Dave Asher from Santa Ana, Calif.

You will be pleased to know that a full scholarship has been established at Boston College in memory of our classmate, the late Joseph A. Haley, Jr. This is the gift of his brother in law Roy Gavin.

Jim Earls, a loyal B.C.'er, tells us that his son Terrence is a member of the Junior class at Holy Cross (How!) and his daughter Rosemarie is a Freshman at Regis.

We congratulate Fr. George Williams on his appointment as Parish Priest of St. Mary Magdalen Parish, Tyngsboro and Fr. Martin Dolphin who is now Pastor of St. Catherine's Parish, Charlestown.

We note that Rt. Rev. John J. Sheehan, Pastor of St. Paul's Parish, Hingham, is now Episcopal Vicar for the Plymouth District of the Archdiocese.

We mourn the passing of one more of our members, Dr. John M. Barry, died Feb. 21, 1967, at his home in North Andover, Mass. Our sympathy and prayers are extended to his wife Mary and his children. May his soul and all the souls of our deceased classmates rest in peace.

Bob Glennon has made plans for our Spring Reunion. You will receive a notice in the mail. Hope to see you all at this time. Until then "Peace be to You."

Bill Gallagher has retired (are we getting that old?) as principal in the Waltham School System.

Present at the kick-off dinner for the Boston College Intown Club: John Griffin, Dan Holland and Tom McTiernan. Tom is a Commander, U.S.N., representing General Electric in the Ordnance Department in Pittsfield, Mass. Tom has been in the Navy 23 years, and now lives in Lennox.

Proportionately, 1935 was very well represented at Laetare Sunday Communion Breakfast: Joe Kelly, Frank Liddell, Bill Fitzsimons, Dick Maloney, Bill Carney, Dan Holland, Dr. Hank Groden, Chick Callahan, Tom Kelly, Mike Collins, Dick Norton, Bill Gallagher, John Griffin, Dr. Paul Hurley, Ed Sullivan, Don Shannon, Dr. Jim McDonough, Gene Donaldson, et moi.

Dr. McDonough will be on this year's Alumni Association ballot as a candidate for Treasurer. In view of his past and present efforts in behalf of the Alumni it needs not to be said that we should give him our complete, shoulder-to-the-wheel support.

John (The Svelt) Griffin was a speaker at the National Oil Institute Convention in Miami. John was also elected a Corporator of the Union Savings Bank of Boston.

It has been suggested to me many times that I include in our notes the names of our sons and daughters who followed our faltering footsteps to The Heights, some of whom have since bestowed upon us the exalted title of grandfather. For fear of slighting it has been avoided. But if you'll just drop me a line it will be most enthusiastically reported.

The time may be delayed, the manner may be unexpected, but the answer is sure to come. Not a tear of sacred sorrow, not a breath of holy desire, poured out to God will ever be lost, but in God's own time and way will be wafted back again in clouds of mercy, and fall in showers of blessings on you, and on those for whom you pray.

Many of the Class attended the Mass for Bishop Ed Lawton who died last winter. Steve Hart, Joe Fay, Joe McHugh, Bob O'Hayre, and Joe Clougherty were among those attending. Monsignor Larry Riley was on the altar.

Speaking of Larry Riley — the closest the Class has come to a reunion since our 25th was at the celebration of the 25th anniversary of his ordination. Among those helping to celebrate were: Paul Campbell, Fr. John Maguire, Fr. John Zuromski, Timothy Ready, Dr. William Provenzano, Paul Power, Robert O'Hayre, John McLaughlin, John Mahoney, Thomas Keane, William Jeselon, Frank Hildrunner, Steve Hart, Fr. Ambrose Flynn, Vincent Esposito, Mark Dalton, Dr. Bob Condon, Hubert Carroll, Jerry Burke, John Burgoine, and John Broderick.

Some of the clergy with their big 25th coming up this year are Fathers Amby Flynn, Al Powers, Tom Navien and Monsignor Speed Carroll. And speaking of the latter, "Speed" still holds — at Hockey Tournaments, Basketball Tournaments, Cheerleading Contests, etc., etc.; and he still looks, and smiles, like he did 30 years ago! And his sidekick Joe Cosgrove seems to be at many of the hockey games at McMugh.

Father John Maguire has been selected to serve on the newly organized Senate of Priests and is now stationed at St. Mary's of the Annunciation in Melrose. Father Dave Roche, formerly of Woburn, is Pastor of St. Ambrose Church in Bristol, Vermont.

Lou Bevacqua, in Education since graduation, after having taught in Massachusetts, Michigan and Connecticut, is now Principal of the Seymour Junior High School in Seymour, Connecticut.

Frank Delear, Public Relations Manager for Sikorsky Aircraft Company, has just had a book published, "The New World of Helicopters." Bob O'Hayre has been appointed to the Board of Directors, Metropolitan Area Planning Council by Gov. Volpe.

Our Anniversary year is rolling along with one successful affair after another. Since you last heard from me, we have been fortunate to have some wonderful affairs. Bill and Lucille Doherty had a pre-lenten reunion at their lovely home in Hyde Park. Present were twenty of our classmates with their wives, including our two Monsignors, Bob Sennott and Johnnie Quirk. Lucille went all out and had luscious food such as Italian meatballs cooked by a French woman (Lucille herself), scrumptious pastries and of course, Bill took care of the liquid refreshments. A wonderful time was had by all.

Monsignor John Quirk and George Curtin were in charge of the Laetare Communion breakfast. They tried a family style set-up and many of our classmates brought their wives and some even brought other members of their families. Present were George Curtin, Teddy Glynn, Joe Murray, Jim Nolan, Jim Sullivan, Leo Covey, Bill Doherty, Jim McCorry, Tom McDermott, Ben Hines, Frank Ryan, Dr. Ford, Steve Graham and yours truly. I hope I didn't forget any others that were present. By the way, in announcing our Stag dinner, Dr. Fred Ford was not mentioned and he was certainly there.

We have another loyal classmate that was promoted to pastor, namely Fr. John Kiely of Sacred Heart Parish in Watertown. He was assigned as pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Roxbury. It is odd that Fr. John was born and raised in Roxbury and he was baptized at St. Pat's. He now returns as its pastor.

Jack Burgess has moved to West Roxbury. His address is 68 Theodore Parker Rd. Frank McCabe has a new address, 3 West Lowell St., Lawrence.

Mons. John Quirk celebrated his 25th Solemn Mass was celebrated with his Eminence the Cardinal present at 4 P.M.

Loran Sanford, son of our own Larry, will be graduated from B.C. this June. He intends to be married in Sept. of '67 to Cynthia Joyce, daughter of John Joyce. Daughters, Catherine and Noreen will also be graduated this June from Cardinal Cushing High. Larry will certainly go broke this June.

Buzzee Durkin, son of Arthur Durkin will also be a graduate of B.C. this June.

Della Bonner, wife of John was Chairlady of our Dinner Dance held at Lord Fox in Foxboro, Saturday, April 8. Over 35 couples were present. Della and her Committee did a marvelous job and many faces that had been missing for a long time were present. Present were Jim Nolan, Joe Barry, Jack Shea, Steve Higgins, Ben Hines, Bill Costello, Bob Provasoli, Waldo Dembrowski, George Curtin, Steve Graham, Tom McDermott, Jack Barrett, Bill Meek, Bill Doherty, Larry Sanford, Jim Doherty, Eric Stenholm, Ed Phillips, Jim Bonner from Westport, Conn., George McGunnigle from Hartford, Conn., Jack Burgess, Bill Sullivan (Boston Patriots), Tom Saint, Jack Keary, Jack Coughlin, Tom Sheerin, Arthur Durkin, John Bonner, Frank McCabe, Al Sullivan, Dr. McManama, Dr. Bob Brennan, Leo Covey, yours truly and our two Monsignors, Bob Sennott and John Quirk. Everyone had a good time and are looking forward to our next event.

Bill Doherty is making plans for a gala week-end — May 26th to the 28th — at the Belmont in Harwich on the Cape. Address all communications to his home address, 51 Blake St., Hyde Park. Since this will be our last planned affair in our Jubilee year, everyone should try to attend.

Audrey Gaquin, daughter of Tom will graduate this June from the College of New Rochelle where she has been an Honor Student for 4 years. She has been offered a full Fulbright scholarship, a Yale fellowship ($3000.) or an Assistant Professorship at Wisconsin University.

Condolences have been sent to Dr. Mike Frasca on the loss of his father and also to Tom Gaquin on the loss of his Dad on April 7. May they rest in Peace.

Our 30th anniversary has been a memorable one thus far. May we count on all out-of-Staters to join us in our Week-end trip. Send all news items to my home address.

Due to a conflict in dates, I was unable to attend either our class dinner or the Laetare Breakfast. A Father-Daughter Week-End at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, where my daughter Ruth is a freshman was held at the same time as the breakfast. Jim Daley kindly agreed to report on these class events and rather than try to improve on Jim's reporting we'll print his letter to me:

March 6

Dear Tom:

You asked me for a report on our gathering of 2/15. You have the names of those present. We also received greetings from Gene Dorr, Paul Cuniff, Ed Ryan, Paul Kelly. You will note that Key Sullivan attended from Pittsburgh. He has recently remarried a widow with several children. At the business meeting, Dick Canavan reported on plans for the 30th—a Memorial Communion breakfast and a week-end get-together. We held an election of officers. Yours truly got caught with his guard down and ended up President; Frank Hunt is Treasurer and you are Secretary forever. For the social, Dick Stanton brought an overhead projector and we flashed all the pictures from the '38 Sub Turri on the screen. All present gave a resume of late news for themselves. For the others, we got whatever anyone knew of them. I took notes, if they are of any use to you. It was a hilarious two hours. Sorry you missed it. At the Laetare breakfast, Bill Finan, Dick Canavan, Frank Toomey, Paul Donaher, Frank Finnigan, Bob Curtis, Paul Farrell, Jim Casey, Joe Hartigan, Bill Prior, Dick Stanton, Jack Guthrie and

"Bits & Pieces":

Jim McCarthy, the proud grandfather of Brian Joseph McCarthy—his father J. Emmet, B.C. '64; Father Dave Sylvester from St. Sebastian's school. Jim Daley, whose daughter Carol is graduating from BC this year; Ralph Luise, Jim Lyons, John Dromey, now Executive Director of the Harvard Society for Advanced Study & Research (Still married to Fr. Larry Mullins' sister Gene), Dr. Fred Landrigan, one of Boston's most prominent Ophthalmologists, living in West Roxbury, Dick Canavan—his daughter Kate is teaching Senior High School in Long Island, N.Y.; Bill Bergen, a member of the Board of Examiners, Boston School Dept., Father Ned Stanton, S.J. who had an article on Christian Action in the Fall Issue of the Alumni News; Pete Kirsils who reported that he is still busy with his avocation of dousing for water veins. Tony Williamson from New Rochelle, N.Y.—his son Tony, Jr. at Fordham Prep—two other children Robin and Neil.

Frank Corbett became a grandfather last December—the mother his oldest, the next a boy who graduated from Providence College now attending Northeastern where he is majoring in Physics—engaged to be married, another boy at Brown University and the youngest in High School. Frank is with Jack Guthrie in the investment business—Burbank Co.

Capt. Frank Ryan of the MDC police, John Mannix, Joe Powers, Tom Buckley, Al Connelly, Herb Scannell, Bob Curtis, Jim O'Donoghue, "Squire" Ed Supple, Ed Corrigan, Charlie "Reggie" O'Hara, Frank Hunt, Ed Cady, Jacob Gasman, Tom Fay, Frank Finnegan, Frank Toomey, Paul Donaher, Ed Hennessy, Paul Farrell, "Deacon" Bill Gannon, Amos Guarente, Rev Sullivan, Henry Deam, Bob Power, Father John Murphy, Bill Finan, Jim O'Hare, Jack Gunthrie, Jack Sullivan, Joe Butler, Jim Donovan, Jim Cahill, Jim Regan, Joe Hartigan and Bill Prior.

On January 15 Father Alan Gibbons, a Commander in the Navy, passed away at the Chelsea Naval Hospital. He had served as a chaplain for over 15 years, serving with Marine and Naval units in Korea, Okinawa, the Pacific and Atlantic fleets, Florida, San Diego and most recently in Coronado, California at the Naval Air Station. Fr. Gibbons celebrated the silver anniversary of his ordination last year. To his family we extend our sincere sympathy.

Deputy Chief Frank Finnegan's testimonial dinner, honoring his promotion in the Boston Fire Dept., had a definite BC tinge—starting with "For Boston" being played by the band as the head table marched to their places. '38 was represented by Ed Cady, Bill Gannon, Jack Guthrie, Vin Shamirian, Jim Dailey, John Dromey, Tom True, Monsignor John McManmon, chaplain for the Boston Fire Dept., who was one of the speakers, Father Paul Sweeney from St. Gregory's in Dorchester who has married Frank and Mary; and Charlie O'Hara.

Warren Cronin writes from the VA Hospital, Canandaigua, N.Y., where he is chief of the Personnel Division. His oldest daughter, Pamela who graduated from BC last year is teaching in Hopkington and working for her Masters at BC., Martha is boarding at Simmons College where she is preparing to become a psychiatric social worker and his two other daughters are headed toward BC in the near future.

We met Joe Hartigan and Bill Prior at the recent Pike's Peak Dinner, honoring the hockey team. Joe told us that Charlie "Dave" Kimball is recovering well from recent surgery. Jack Larkin will complete his 2 year tour of duty in Japan this October. Before that he had been stationed in England for 2 years; they have two children and had been making their home in Maryland.

Father John McLaughlin has been transferred to Sacred Heart Parish in Cambridge.

Recently we saw a marriage engagement, in the Boston papers—Margaret Ann Short, daughter of Col. and Mrs. John J. Short of Fort Devens—would that be John who started out at BC with us?

John Dromey has been appointed Executive Director of the Harvard Graduate Society for Advanced Study and Research.

The sympathy of the class is extended to Mary D. Kelly, wife of Joseph F. Kelly who died of a heart attack Saturday, January 28 in Corning, N.Y. May his soul rest in peace.

In these days when the watchword is either 'atomic' or 'ecumenical' we begin on the one note and end on the other. Phil Thompson, chief of the Cambridge branch of the Atomic Energy Commission, oversees that agency's operation in New England, particularly its contracts with Harvard and M.I.T. Also handling contracts, but with the Department of Defense at Boston Army Base, is Martin P. Henneberry. He will be attending Commencement Exercises at The Heights in June to see son Ed graduate from the College of Arts and Sciences. Huck's number two son, John, is a sophomore at the College of Business Administration and his daughter attends Matignon High in Cambridge. The Business Manager of M.I.T.'s Medical Department, Leo Caplice, will be on hand when son Richard receives his degree in Mathematics from Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass., in June. This will be the warm-up; daughter Teresa will be graduating from B.C. soon and son Joe completes his freshman year there this semester.

This year's successful Laetare Sunday Alumni Communion Breakfast at The Heights was due, in no small measure, to Dr. Al Branca, the general chairman. Joan Monahan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Monahan, was presented at the Saint Nicholas Cotillion in February. John is now convalescing, less from the debut than from two minor operations.

Paul F. Moore, the vest-and-sleeves boxing impresario of our days in the rotunda (Sub Turri, p. 208), is now Executive Vice-President of St. Mary's Dominican College in New Orleans, La. He was host to Father Walsh who visited New Orleans recently, but Paul's drawl was soon solved by the president who hails from Southern Boston and is experienced in coping with regional accents.

Notes on two of us who heeded Horace Greeley: Harry Burr is head of the chemistry department at Worcester Junior College and lives in Westborough. One of his two daughters is a Registered Nurse, the second is attending Wagner College on Staten Island, N.Y. Tom Bradley is Director of Sales and Promotion for Rachelle Laboratories, Inc., of Long Beach, Calif.

From Albrook Air Force Base in the Canal Zone we learn that Lieutenant Colonel Ed Timmons is Director of Intelligence for the United States Air Force Southern Command, and that certainly has a nice ring to it! His daughter, Paula Jane, was recently married to Robert E. Lee Strider III, at the Base Chapel, Präsido of Monterey, Calif. Paula Jane attended Sullins College in Bristol, Va., and her husband, son of president Strider of Colby College, is studying advanced Russian at the Defense Language Institute, Monterey. Ed's son Tim will represent more than a score Canal Zone scout troops and explorer posts, as a member of the Host Corps at the World Scouting Jamboree in Idaho this summer.

Our man in Plymouth, Mass., Tom Quinn, is chairman of the Post-Conciliar Study Commission of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men. The Interim Report of the Study Commission runs fifteen pages and presents facts, findings and conclusions about parish activity that are quite startling in these days of Vatican II. Tom is counsel for the very successful Plymouth Industrial Development Corporation and likewise for Plymouth (sic) Plaza Shopping Center. We also understand there is a movement afoot to insert him as chairman of a Committee to Spell Ply(i)-mouth One Way or T'Other.

Chaplain Tom McDonald is a member of the 375th Aeromedical Airlift Wing at Scott AFB, Ill., that has received the coveted U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Chaplain McDonald will wear a distinctive blue ribbon decoration to identify his affiliation with the Military Airlift Command organization.

Friday, February 10—a night for yarns, some knitted, some spun. Both helped make the evening a memorable one. The occasion was a Hockey Night. Activities began with a cocktail hour which was followed by a buffet at Alumni Hall, and the climax came when the party adjourned to McHugh Forum to watch the skating Eagles take on St. Lawrence University. The goalie on Snooks' club is tremendous. Bolster him with the band in the 'snake pit' and he becomes terrific. But put 1940 at his points and he is unbeatable. So there we sat, and naturally, we won. Or did we? Or who remembers? For a wonderful evening of sociability and festivity, our thanks to Henry Desmond and his committee, Harry White, Tom Duffey, Tom Cudmore, Bill Joy, Jim Kean, and Jim Doonan. For the nice people who huffed, and puffed, and rushed through the snow that night to insure the success of the party we are grateful. We mean such people as the Leo Sullivans, the Tim Fahertys, the Bob Tilleyes, the Jack McCarthys, the Dave Luceys, the Tom Fords, the Dick Wrights, the Joe McKennys, the Jim Doonans, the Bob McGees, the Frank O'Briens, the John Daltons, the Owen Hallbergs, the Jim McNicholases, the Frank Gallagher, the Jim Ryders, the Bob Powers, the John McLaughlins, the Tom Fureys, the Elmore Campbells, the Ted Heaslip, the Tom Cudmore, Father Joe Shea, the Bill Joys, Bud Glennon, the Tom Heffernans, the Jack Morrisseys, Ed Barrett, and Bill Gilligan among others.

Thanks to the efforts of Henry McMahon, the Laetare Sunday Communion Breakfast regulars turned out in strong numbers for the Mass and breakfast on Sunday, March 5. Heading our procession was West Roxbury Jim Thompson who has been in attendance at this event since its inception back when.

Glad to report that its staidness now for Fred Dow. Last time we caught up with each other it was in the lobby of a Paris hotel. Fred is now back in Midland Michigan, bidding time until the summer when he joins the faculty of the new Graduate School of Business Administration at Notre Dame as professor of Business Administration.

Don't know whether you would say that he's putting his best foot forward, or that he's doing it for kicks, or maybe he's just using his head. Anyhow, Joe McKenney is now affiliated with the new Boston entry in the infant professional soccer league. Boston Beacons is their name, and Joe is the general manager of the organization. So, to those of you who have been kicking all these years, it may not have been in vain. I know a fellow who knows a fellow who—

Speaking of kicking, I got one when I read Bobby McGovern's letter concerning 1940's financial structure. I knew we were broke, but didn't think we were so low that we could apply as an impacted area for assistance. Well versed in the fields of real estate, insurance, and assessing, Bob is one of the guiding hands for the Boston Re-Development Authority and is doing a tremendous job for the organization. Congratulations, and thanks, Bob. In a brief note Bob remarks that I should inform you in the hinterlands that if he was elected by a shot-gun election, remember, he still has the shot gun and that your dues are due Now.

Busiest man in the area these days with the advent of warmer weather is Bill Gilligan. Already his running Eagles have turned in some impressive victories, and Bill has his charges pointing for the New England and Eastern recognition. As if you weren't aware, Bill is the Track coach here at the Heights. Doubles in brass as a guidance counselor with the Boston School Department.

Also in the field of education, and Counseling in particular, is Jim Fulton. He is a member of the Norwood school system and serves as Guidance Counselor for the Junior High. The Fultons, Jim, wife Agnes, and daughter Lorraine reside in Norwood. Fr. Ambrose J. Mahoney, S.J. has been named Assistant dean of Holy Cross.

Don't forget that Alumni Weekend is June 2-5 this year. Hope to see many of you at Alumni Day. Plans are being formulated now for our part in the activity. You will be notified.

Attending the Laetare Sunday Mass and Communion Breakfast were Paul Jennings, Warren Heffernan, Larry Connors, Phil Mulhern, Jack Colahan, Nick Sottile, Frank McSweeney and his wife, Tom McDonald, Ed

Burke, Col. Bob Long, USAF, Bill Maguire, Dick Daley, Dr. George McManama, Elmer Ross, Ike Jones and Jack Kehoe.

All members of the class will be happy to hear that Dick Devereux, Humbert Cicinotti and Chet Gladchuck are well on the road to recovery after recent illnesses.

Len Frisoli, now retired from the FBI, has been appointed chief of operations at Rockingham Park. Len and Fran Blouin were vacationing in Florida during Laetare Sunday.

Dr. John J. Connor, Jr. was elected superintendent of Schools, Worcester, Mass.

Bernard Frazier was elected a member of the National Board of Trustees of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Mr. Frazier is also eastern public relations manager of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company and makes his headquarters in New York.

After a six-year stint as class correspondent for Alumni News, I am passing the reins on to Ed Burke. Ed has compiled a twenty-fifth anniversary report which is a stupendous achievement in anybody's language. It includes an up-to-date account of the whereabouts and activities of every member of the class. A bouquet also to Paul True on this for an attractive printing job. Ed would appreciate any news being sent to him at 20 Ravenswood Rd., Waltham 02154.

The sympathy of the class is extended to the family of Fred Mattioli who passed away in April. Fred had been in the field of education since graduation and will long be remembered as one of our finer Mathematicians.

Jim Malone reports from Illinois as Division Manager, General Telephone. Also, President Chamber of Commerce, Vice Chairman Building Commission, Jr. Newman Teacher and member of several state commissions. Unfortunately, Jim can't make the final weekend because of daughter's graduation from High School, but he says a fond hello to all.

Colonel E. R. McCarthy, U.S.M.C., reports from Vietnam that he too may not be able to be back but wants to be informed of all activities.

My sincerest thanks to Joe Marcantonio, his committee and his family for the wonderful wine tasting buffet and dance. More than 45 men of '42 and their wives enjoyed the party.

Congratulations, also to Tom Hinchey for another great showing of the class on Laetare Sunday. As usual we had one of the highest turnouts at this event.

Now to the greatest and final event for the jubilarians. Friday, June 2nd, thru Sunday, June 4th, is the weekend. It is the only time in our lives that we can really get together as a 25th anniversary class. There is no next time so let's sacrifice if necessary, and make this weekend a glorious reminder of 4 wonderful years at the Heights and a fitting climax to the past 25 years. John Gibbons is chairman for the weekend and he and his committee will be calling you on these events.

As chairman of the year, I would like to thank the chairmen of the events, their committees and all of you who have worked hard to make this such a successful year. Please join John Gibbons and his men in the final weekend for a real fine time.

And so, after 25 years of trying to write these notes, I am turning the chore over to Ernie Handy who will handle it for the next 25 years. Volunteers are requested to replace Ernie when the time comes.

Last Call for Bermuda Trip!! Numerous applications have been received, but we want all to have a chance. Extension to June 1 will be made; this offers great chance to begin celebration of our 25th anniversary. Deposit of $25, per person necessary, don't delay, do it today! Congratulations are in order for: Andy Carnegie on his election as Assistant Treasurer, State St. Bank & Trust Co. Paul Gartland on being named Vice President of Johnson & Higgins, international insurance brokers of N.Y. Paul is a Navy veteran of WW II and Korea, holding the D.F.C. and 7 Air Medals. John Flynn on his election as President of the Holy Name Society of St. Catherine's, Norwood; and last to John and Alice O'Donoghue on the birth of their new son, Stephen Christopher on March 10. A recent note from Ed O'Sullivan reveals he is still in the Middle East as Representative for the Lummas Co. of N.Y. and resides in Beirut, Lebanon. The condolences of the Class are extended to the family of Tom (Joe) Nevins, who died suddenly on March 27. The class was well represented at the wake and funeral by Jim Grimes, Paul Healy, Ray Sisk, Frank Richards, Jack Breen, Bob Rehling, Andy Carnegie, Jim Duane and Dr. Jack Murphy. The Associated Press Coach of the Year, Mike Holovac was further honored after the season by being named the Outstanding Athlete of the Year by the Italo-American Associates of greater Boston. Dr. Dave Folan's daughter Kathleen has been accepted at the Massachusetts College of Art, where she plans a career in interior decorating. A further check of the student roster reveals that more classmates have children at the Heights: Dr. Walter Baranowski (a son, Class of '70); Frank Hill (a son, Class of '70); Bob Sherry (a son, Class of '69); Sam Loscocco (a son, Class of '70) and Ed Diver (a daughter, Class of '67). Leaving the fold is Ed McGilvery's son Ted, who has won a scholarship to H.C.

The condolences of the Class are also extended to Dr. Al Jansen on the death of his wife Magdelen in early April. Fr. Len Mahoney is now the Graduate Study Advisor at the Heights, involved with students who have won various scholarships such as Wilsons and Danforths. Sam Loscocco representing the Pewter Pot Muffin House, was an exhibitor at the recent B.C. conference on franchising. Among the Class members at the Alumni Golf Tournament at Pleasant Valley in May were Jim Connolly, Paul Healy, John Logue, Tom Curry, John Whelan, Ed McGilvery, Wally Boudreau and Chairman Tom Connor, as well as Tom Murray, who supervised for the Alumni from early morning to late night. At a Business meeting on April 13, the Class Directors endorsed the following program for our 25th Anniversary: A Stag Dinner on September 29, a great Champagne Dance on November 10, a skating party on December 29 and some even to be scheduled for the spring, plus strong participation in Alumni events of the years. As soon as dates and details are settled, the Class will be notified through a 25 year program. One Final Reminder: Your Class dues for the past '66-'67 year are now due, and should be paid now. Your check, payable to "B.C. '43" may be sent to Tom Murray . . . . See You In Bermuda!!

Several of our class have been regulars at the Annual Golf tournament including Fred Leonard, Fr. Pat Kelly, Charlie Earley and your correspondent. I almost forgot to mention Jack McCarthy and Lou Soggi who also ran. Bill Burley, Education Chairman of Mass CPA's, presented awards at the board's annual awards winner to the high scorers, held at Sheraton Plaza. I was pleased to hear Gregory Fortune interviewed on a local radio station as a successful entrepreneur on the Rte. 128 Belt. Greg was with us for a short time at Business School and left for an illustrious career in Naval Air Force. He later graduated from Univ. of N.H. He is founder and President of Fortune Metal Finishing Co. of Needham and lives in Wellesley. Three of our sons at last count will be classmates at Business School in fall; Fred Leonard Jr., Charlie Earley Jr. and Brian Curry, that sounds like our "foursome". Several of our group are members of "Catholic Alumni Sodality". Lou Soggi, Dave Hern, T. X. Cronin, Al Tierney, etc. have been seen in attendance over the years. The annual retreat or the timely opinions of Fr. Gilda the spiritual director as well as the companionship of a fine group of men are worth the exercise of attending. If anyone is interested in joining the Sodality, your scribe would be pleased to hear from you. Send some notes through the Summer so we can make the next fall issue more interesting — gratias.

"THANK HEAVENS FOR LITTLE GIRLS," especially those who grew into lovely young ladies, married B.C. grads and recently were in touch with me regarding the home front — Elinor Hickey reports that all is well with Ed and their five children in Norwood, Mass., with Ed being associated with the Algonquin Gas Transmission Company for the past fourteen years. Elinor complains that Ed hasn't learned a new dance step since Glen Miller recorded "In the Mood."

From Danvers, Dot MacGillivray comments on the relentless schedule of hubby, Doctor Doug, who is associated with several hospitals in his specialty as a Surgeon. While Doctor Doug "keeps everyone in stitches," Dot keeps an eye on their eleven children.

From the North Shore in Ipswich, Polly McKenzie tells us that Charlie is Assistant Principal at Ipswich High School and plans to continue plugging towards his Doctorate. Together with their two children they really love this seashore town and early in April were wading at Crane's Beach.

Bill Earley, residing in Norwell, Mass. with his wife Dorothy and their two children, is the Program Manager of the Raytheon Company at the Submarine Signal Division, Portsmouth, Rhode Island. Regretfully, we have received the news of Bill's father passing on to his reward on April 1, of this year. Many of you remembered Bill Sr. who for 33 years was maintenance supervisor at the Heights. May his soul rest in peace.

Dr. Tom Monahan, M.D., at last report, had seven children in his ever growing family out in West Roxbury. He is a self-employed Internist, and I was just wondering that when Dr. Tom is called in on a case if he says "looks like an inside job." . . . Attorney Tom McManus resides in Norwood with his wife and three children and he is not only active in the courts, but in the community. In addition to having been an officer in several organizations, Tom is past Chairman of the Board of Selectmen and a strong, meaningful voice in all town meetings. . . . Be looking for you on Alumni Weekend (our 20th anniversary remember) and have a nice summer.

Congratulations to Ed Grant on his outstanding success as coach of the Boston Technical High School Basketball Team. They defeated Somerville High for the Class A Tech Tournament championship this year. Ed, you did a great job — best of luck with your future teams.

President of the Somerville Teachers Association is John M. Russell. A teacher at the Carr Elementary School, John is married and the proud father of four children.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Karl Fassnacht on the recent death of his father and to John Driscoll on the death of his sister.

Congratulations to Ed Gallotti who was recently elected a selectman in the town of

We have had an interesting note from John Garvey, formerly of Woburn, who is now the Reverend John Garvey, stationed at Our Lady of the Assumption Church, P.O. Box 596, Sylvania, Georgia, 30467; John writes "Appreciate receiving the Alumni News. I have been in the South now as a Glenmary Missioner since 1957. Have really enjoyed it. I have a parish of five churches. We have approximately 150 practicing Catholics out of 62,000 people. Interesting and challenging." John would appreciate hearing from any of his old friends who would care to write.

Also had a nice note from Herbert May, formerly of Milton. "Herb," better known to his intimates as "Bert" writes that he is living at 188 Skinner Road, Vernon, Connecticut with his wife and five children (3 boys and 2 girls). We hadn't seen Herb for about ten years the last time being a chance meeting at the Navy Building in Boston . . . and he is currently Commercial Line Manager at the Hartford Regional Office of the Royal-Globe Insurance Group. Herb writes "All goes well here and I get a big kick out of reading of B.C.'s prominence on the basketball court in these 'out of state' newspapers. Hope to see you at some Alumni function in the not too distant future."

We note that John Gallagher, Esq., associated with Ross, Hardies, O'Keefe, Babcock, McDugald & Parsons, was a guest speaker at the Bureau of Public Affairs, Boston College and Urban America, Inc. presentation during an All Day Conference on Non-Profit Housing which was held last June at Alumni Hall.

Bumped into John W. McCue recently at the Fortieth Anniversary of the founding of Mount Alvernia Academy, just above the Campus at Chestnut Hill.

Incidentally, Leo Wesner has left the B. C. Office of Development where he labored so diligently for the last few years, and is now fulfilling his duties as Assistant to the President of Development at Stonehill College.

Once again, as in the past, Jack Casey, Fred Mauriello and I, would appreciate hearing from any of you former class-mates, wives, and mothers, as to your respective activities. . . . Don't be bashful.

It was good to see some of you at the Laetare Sunday Communion Breakfast where Father Walsh gave such an inspiring and informative talk on the changing complexion on the campus of Catholic universities throughout the country. At our table we had Dick Stevenson, Robert Powers, Leo Wesner, Jim Derba, Charlie McInnis, Bob O'Donnell, Lloyd McDonald and Frank Messmer.

Charlie McInnis is a dentist in Bryantville, Massachusetts and has four children. Bob O'Donnell is a Junior High School Principal in Stoughton, Massachusetts and has five children. Lloyd McDonald has recently moved from Stoughton to Sharon and is with Downing & Desautels Insurance Agency in Boston. Lloyd has seven children. Frank Messmer is living in Wellesley with his wife and five children and is with Standard Duplicator in Wakefield.

We understand that the Reverend Robert Bullock has just been appointed Vice-Chairman of The Newman Educational Section and is also a member of the Educational Committee of the National College Educational Association. Don White and Walter Carty are with the John F. Moynihan Co. of New York as advertising account executives. Leo Burns is with the telephone company in Stamford, Conn. Jim Wiles is head of the social science department at Stonehill College. He is working toward his Doctorate. Al Southerland is teaching economics and business law at Boston College. Bob Cochran is with the James Lavine Co. — the fund raising firm that has been raising money for the Kennedy Memorial Library. George O'Brien is the controller of the Boston Port Authority. He lives in Braintree and has two children. Harry Kirby is with Paine, Weber and Curtis in Philadelphia. Dr. Mike Donovan is living in South Boston with his wife and five children and is on the staff at the Carney Hospital. We understand he is a great handball player. Jim Derba was chairman of the founders dinner of The Downtown Club Boston College held at the Sheraton-Boston April 12th. We hope that all of you in the Boston area will support The Boston College Downtown Club.

John Monahan has been promoted to Associate Technical Director of the Tactical Systems Division at the MITRE Corporation. Joe McGonagle has been elected City Clerk of Medford, Mass. Nicholas Varga has been granted a Sabbatical leave for the academic year of 1967-68 to pursue research on an history of Loyola College. The College has also given Nick a substantial research grant to support this undertaking.

James Cronin is now production superintendent of UniRoyal Inc. Ed Smith has been named Pittsburgh District Sales Manager by Sinclair-Koppers Company. Eugene Maloney has been named export sales manager for electronic components for Raytheon Company. Chaplain Connell E. Murphy was assigned to the 4th Infantry Division in Vietnam on February 3. Al Anderson is entered in the nine week course defense weapons systems management under the Air Force Institute of Technology education program at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Ron Weyand is currently Chairman of the Drama department at Marymount College. He just completed his second season at the Lincoln Center of the Performing Arts, where he played Rector Gaffone in Brecht's play "Galileo." Ron has also appeared in "East Wind," "In Three Zones," and "The Alchemist." Bob Corcoran was granted an Alfred Sloan Fellowship for a full year for education in management at M.I.T. leading to a master of science degree.

The swing and sway season will be on us before we know it — many will be renewing old acquaintances on the quarter deck of the yacht clubs, the 18th hole of the golf course and even possibly the Saturday excursions to the dump. But before all this starts, the swayingest and swayingest class that ever walked double time on Graduation Day down Linden Lane without turning their heads to look in any direction other than ahead, is having a swing-sway on May 27, 1967 at Alumni Hall.

Your dance committee has been working extra hard on this surprise evening. Tickets for this year's dance will be sent to you shortly, and it would be appreciated if your returns would be made early: Many exceptional prizes have been arranged for lucky classmates (ie) I have heard, there is the possibility of a trip for two, all expenses paid to Boston's famous Castle Island, this, of course, is only a rumor now — but we'll find out on the 27th — see you there.

Congratulations are in order for Ed Logan who was appointed an Assistant Agency Manager by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S. Ed presently is a member of the Society's Thomas Brady Agency in Boston. Paul Coughlin is now with the Factoring Dept., at the main office in Boston of the First National Bank. Bill Brook and yours truly Bob Kelly have been busily directing product distribution for the Mobil Oil Corp. in New England. Bill with Fleet and Bob with TBA. Jim W. Holly is now with RCA at their Route 128 complex. Larry Maloney is one of the bright young men in the Sears organization. John O'Gorman — with National Cash Register Data Processing Sales. Ed Hanlon is to be congratulated on his new store in Waltham. How many shoe sales does it take to open a new store Ed? Bill Mahoney is living in Watertown and teaching in Groton, Mass. Bill Clancy — teaching at Weymouth High. John & Lou Irwin — Just had their 4th — their 3rd daughter. John is with Dewey & Almy. The class was well represented at the Laetare Sunday Breakfast, including some senior members of the proud papas club who have been hiding their light under a bushel.

Dan Clifford is living in Bridgewater and commutes to Cambridge where he is Director of the Economic Opportunity Committee and runs the Poverty Program as it is called. Dan and his wife now have seven children. Dan reports that Jack Ford our Class Treasurer in student days, has a similar position in the poverty program in Fitchburg, Massachusetts.

Chet McLaughlin is living in Brockton with his wife and six children, two of whom he brought to the breakfast. Chet is the New England District Manager for Information Handling Services, Denver, Colorado.

Ed Silva made the trip to the Heights from Lowell where he lives with his wife and six children. Ed is the Manager of Military Production Engines Programs — Contracts for the General Electric Flight Propulsion Division.

Jack Leonard also attended and our table was again graced by the presence of his lovely alumna sister.

Ed Smielski and Jim O'Halloran represented our accountants. Ed is studying for his CPA exam and Jim is frantically looking for more personnel for Arthur Anderson.

Dan Clifford had some news of classmates who have gotten out of touch with the class. He reports that Jim Furdon is working with the Catholic Charities in Florida helping with the problems of Cuban relief and that Dave Namet is now Executive Director of the Chelsea Urban Renewal Authority.

Tom Mullen is in National Sales Management at Raytheon. Mike Waldron, whose marriage to the former Jean McDonald Ryan was noted several issues ago, is on active duty on the destroyer Norris off the coast of Viet Nam. He is the Executive Officer of that ship.

A belated notice about one of our friendly friars. Father Stephen Koen has been elected a member of the First Priest's Senate in the history of the Boston Archdiocese, and is stationed at St. Joseph's in Lynn.

From the academic world, Paul Sally has been appointed Assistant Professor in Mathematics at the University of Chicago. Next year he has been given a grant by the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton and will be in New Jersey for the academic year.

A final note from the world of finance. Barry Murphy has been elected an Assistant Vice President of Bache & Company. Barry is Manager of their Institutional Department for New England. Barry has been quite active in the establishment of the Boston College Downtown Club.

At the various hospital meetings during the past year, we've met Betty Healey Clarke at the Mass. Nurses Assoc. Instructional Conf., Sally Harrington and Michaeline Russel at the New England Hospital Association, and Kay Burke and Rosemary Pink Feeney at the Catholic Hospital Association.

Betty Gallagher Breton, Audrey Brady, and Mary Sullivan enjoyed the Alumnae Spring Fashion Show held in March.

Relocating recently were Ann Donovan Haskins in Lincoln, N.H., Alice Lorden Flaherty in Cleveland, Ohio, and Mary Debaggis Mottola (from Conn.) in North Andover.

Enrolled in the Professional Enrichment Series sponsored by the School of Nursing for its' Alumni are Andrea Lane Demers, Maureen Tobin Hughes, Mary O'Connor Gallagher, Alice Logue Lawler, Mary Healy Nackle, Joan Kennedy, Ginny O'Brien Cahill, Charlie Shishmanian, Mary Lawlor Pablicover, and John Mulligan Nicolls.

Rita Waitkunas is attending B.C. Graduate School.

John McNeice was awarded the professional designation of Chartered Financial Analyst (C.F.A.) by the Institute of Chartered Financial Analysts. John Curtin, Jr. has been selected for inclusion in the 1967 edition of OUTSTANDING YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA.

John Fiala has been appointed a senior estimator, nuclear plant equipment, in the nuclear power generation department at the Babcock & Wilcox Company, Barberton, Ohio.

It is sad to report the death of Tom Guthrie, one of the most popular members of our class. Tom was killed in an automobile accident late last Fall. Head football coach Ara Parsigian showed that he has as much attraction to B.C. men as Notre Dame grads. Seen at the dinner for the N.D. mentor were Phil Doherty, Jack Karle, Joe Mattaliano, Don Roche and Dick Rencan. John C. Sullivan reports that he has been named department head at Ittek Corp. He received his M.B.A. from B.C. in 1965. He and his wife, Jean, are living in Waltham. They have four children, three sons and the latest addition, a daughter.

Paul Slattery has moved to New Jersey to assume executive duties with American Tel. & Tel.

Tom Lawlor, Territory Representative at Xerox Corporation's Waltham branch, was graduated recently from the company's National Sales Development Center in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Tom lives with his wife and seven children in Newton. Hugh J. Mayo has been named Sales Supervisor by Liberty

Jerry Splaine's varsity basketball team at The New Hampton (N.H.) School has just received its third consecutive bid to play in the New England Invitational Private School Basketball Tournament.

John McLaughlin has been appointed advertising manager for the fiber and textile division of United States Rubber Co. John will be located at the company's New York office.

It seems that our exhortation of the winter issue bore some fruit. We received a nice letter from Bob Cahill bringing us up to date on his activities. After two years of Army service in Korea, Bob joined Sylvania Electric Company in the Salem office, involved in various financial positions. He has since been transferred to the Camillus, New York office where he is Supervisor of Financial Training for Sylvania. Bob renewed old friendships at the Business School in December when he was on a recruiting trip. Bob, his wife Eileen and their four children would like to visit with classmates who get to the Syracuse area.

Dave Mulcahy, (now Major Robert D.) writes that his wife Eileen (popular name) presented him with a daughter in December. Baby Kathy has three older brothers. Dave is presently stationed at the Marine Corps Air Facility at Santa Ana, California as Supply Officer for the Marine Tactical Data System Test Unit. Dave and his family thoroughly enjoy the California climate although they occasionally are nostalgic about New England.

Bob Pangione, who obtained his M.B.A. from Northeastern in 1962, is living on Elmcrest Road, North Andover with his wife and four children and, for seven years has been the President of MacDonald and Pangione Insurance Agency of Lawrence, Mass. and Derry, New Hampshire.

Matty Ferraro has opened his new law office at 801 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, for those of us who need legal counsel. Best wishes in the new office and to the new baby, Matty's third son.

The Sidney Hill Country Club provided a lovely setting for the luxurious silk gowns shown by CECILE's of Belmont at the recent Alumnae Fashion Show. Seated in the audience was Regina Strain Venditto of New Britain, Conn. Regina's husband Carl is principal in Middletown, Conn. Also among the fashion-minded was Lou Burke Toland. She and Dick are now happily settled, with their two youngsters, in their new home in Westwood. Denise McCabe Igo drove down from Concord. She and her husband are the proud parents of their second child, first daughter, Jacqueline Denise. Another new arrival is Brian Neal Goudie, fifth son and seventh child for the Robert E. Goudies of Norwell.

The Testimonial Dinner for Rev. Charles Donovan was a memorable affair for the many who attended. The greetings of the Alumni were beautifully given by Connie Anne Regolino, who was seated at the head table. Sister M. Josephina, C.S.J., delivered the greetings of the Faculty, Past and Present. It was so good to see many of the original faculty of the School of Ed. again, among them Miss Barbara Bennett, who is now with the Lexington School Dept., Mr. Fitzgerald, and Dr. P. Lambert. Also present were Margaret Byrne and Dr. Florence Genoa, as we remember them, but both of whom are now "Mrs." (we ask their forgiveness for our lapse of memory). Memories were shared also with our former Jesuit instructors, including Frs. John J. McCarthy, John Christopher Sullivan (now at B.C. High), Daniel N. Dwyer, Joseph Donaghue (at Holy Cross), and Robert Hewitt. "Old grads" who came to honor Father Donovan numbered among them Peter Colleary, who received his Master's at Boston State, and is now teaching in Cambridge. Also in the Cambridge school system is Barbara Higgins Crosby. Don O'Hanley is a stockbroker with Kidder, Peabody & Co., and is living in Newport, R.I. Jim Bryant and his wife came from Stoughton, where Jim is principal of the elementary school. Pat Moore, now Sister John Margaret, is teaching French at Emmanuel College. Greetings were also exchanged with Betty Wilson Barron, Claire Cunningham, Betty Bulman Craven, Alice Shea and Elinor Callahan Slattery. Jack Foley is Data Processing Mgr. at Converse Rubber Co., in Malden. Sadly, we learned of the recent death of Walter Lang's father. Our sympathy and prayers are sincerely extended to Walter and his family.

Our sincere appreciation to Margie Murphy of Milton who attended the Testimonial and passed on so much of the news to us. How about hearing from some of you "silent" readers? Drop a note, telling us about yourselves and your families.

News reports of other '56ers tell us that "Doc" Mauro is with Sylvania in Woburn. Bob Kenney, who received his Master's at Harvard Business School, is now associated with Price Waterhouse. Looks like B.C. has infiltrated the ranks of IBM, but good!! To name a few: Dick Halstead is Sales Rep in Waltham; Paul O'Connell of Milton is Office Products Sales Rep, also in Waltham; "Duff" Doherty is Sales Mgr. of Boston's Supplies Division, and Paul Comeau is Systems Engineering Mgr. in Boston.

If you're house hunting or selling, the man to see on the South Shore is Paul Sheehan of Norwell. Paul and his wife Bev, just returned from a trip to the Bahamas, which was a prize won by Paul for excellence in sales. He is associated with Walter Hall

Realtors.

Jim McLaughlin wrote recently to advise that he is presently studying at Columbia University under a Federal Government grant in the field of Educational Research. He expects to be there for two years. While at Columbia, Jim is on leave of absence from the Niagara Falls School System where he is a teacher of History. Jim has added two Masters to his degrees list, an M.Ed. from Niagara University, as well as an M.A. in History from the same school. In his professional capacity, he has served a two year term as President of the Niagara Falls Federation of Teachers.

Baierlein on the recent loss of his mother. George is employed with Baird Atomic in Waltham in an engineering capacity. He is also active in the Naval Reserve where he was promoted to Lt. Commander in the not too distant past.

Our sympathy goes out also to Tom Lawton, whose father passed away a while back.

Tom's Dad was a very prominent and highly regarded member of the trial lawyers bar in Massachusetts and had practiced law in Boston for many years. To his enduring credit, amongst many other items, stands the accomplishment of having directed all three of his sons through B. C.

Tom incidentally is now working at Harvard University in a project involving computers and medicine. I'm unable to fathom the full nature of his endeavours, but understand that it looks towards the eventual resolution of diseases through mathematics. If by some application of the Pythagorean Theorem we can achieve immortality or, at least, freedom from headaches, we are all for it. In the interim, we are still confined to that panacea called "aspirin" and contentment born of the knowledge that our classmate is attuned directly to advances in the medico-mathematical field. Will the slide-rule replace our men of medicine? Though we might be somewhat skeptical, the potential economies are rather exciting. How say you Dr. Bernier?

Jim King phoned in from Ft. Worth in the not too distant past to record the arrival of yet another King, making four additions in all. A few summers back, Jim and his entourage came East in a bus of the Volkswagen variety. Any further expansion might necessitate a Greyhound rental for forthcoming cross-country treks. Professionally, Jim is now the senior trial attorney in the Ft. Worth office of the National Labor Relations Board.

We understand from wholly reliable sources that Dr. Gene McCarthy amongst a veritable plethora of other activities is presently engaged in a consultant capacity with the Archdiocese of New York in an effort to consolidate all New York Archdiocesan Hospitals, a Herculean endeavour to say the least.

Rev. Mark Hannon, one of those "drop-outs" who left us after sophomore year in favor of the institution behind the Cardinal's residence on Commonwealth Ave., is now tending to the spiritual needs of our brethren in Medfield, Mass. who frequent (or otherwise) St. Edward's Church in that town; including such notables as Frank Curry and John Harney, not to mention myself. It is certain that we are all the better for his efforts. For those whose memories might be a bit dimmed, we might add that Fr. Mark stands about 6'5" and when he starts belting Beelzebub, who, including the Devil, dare not listen and pay heed.

Our president, Jim Barry was promoted in the Telephone Company recently and has moved to their New York office. He and his family now live in Summit, New Jersey at 57 Karen Way. We expect to see a significant appreciation in AT & T stock shortly, what with himself at the controls in New York.

Congratulations are in order for 2 of the gals from the School of Nursing. Roy and Mary Lou (Tazioli) Berkenstock welcomed a 7 lb 7 oz. baby girl on December 27, 1966. She has called her Rebecca Jane. Mary Lou has a girl, Amy and a boy, Aran Lee to help her at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford G. Tingley (Josephine Fitzpatrick) announce the arrival of their first daughter, Sharon Marie on Dec. 8, 1966. They also have a boy, Carl.

Peggy (Benoit) Schumaker writes that she is out in sunny California. Her husband is studying for his Ph.D. which he hopes to receive in June. After June there is a possibility Peggy and her family will be moving to Ohio. Be sure to send us a new address.

Pauline (McDonough) Ryan, Mary (Mulahy) Rommell, Gay (Hardy) Tower, Claire (Bousquet) Murray, Anne (Hall) O'Brien, and Josephine (Fitzpatrick) Tingley have been attending the refresher class given at the Heights. They are very enlightening and have been enjoyed by all who have attended. Gerry and Joan (Piekarowski) Croteau have opened a business of their own. It is the Colonial Landscape Shop and consists of a garden center and gift shop. Their new business is located on Route 119 in Groton, where they live with their six children. Best of luck to both of you.

From the grapevine we hear that Sue (Lareau) McPaul, our most recent bride has moved back to Mass. from New York. Sue and Ed have settled in West Quincy. Would appreciate getting your complete address and any other bits of information.

The biggest surprise of all, both for us and mother comes from Chester, Pennsylvania. Mr. & Mrs. Daniel Helferty (Marion Durgin) became the proud parents of twin boys on Feb. 18. They have called the boys, James Paul and Richard Jeremiah. Both mother and babies are doing just fine. That brings to 8 the number of Helferty's filling up the house.

As we go to press, we are again confronted with a dearth of news, when one considers the size of our class. Though our antennae are always attuned, many of you do not appear to come in on our present wave lengths. We would welcome any repair efforts you can offer, preferably in the form of letters to your correspondents.

We all express our sympathy to Eileen Teahan Quigley on the death of her mother.

We have two corrections from the last issue: Barbara Toth is Assistant Director of Nurses at Boston Lying In Hospital; and Cecelia Canniff Doherty lives in Arlington not Winchester. Sorry girls.

We must say that our class spirit leaves much to be desired. Two members of our class attended the Alumnae Fashion Show, Barbara Toth and Kay Griffin Leonard who is living in Lawrence and has three children. Kay's husband has just been named an Assistant Attorney General under Eliot Richardson. Congratulations Kay and Dan.

Three of our classmates are attending the Professional Enrichment Course at the Heights; Kitty Carroll MacDonald who has two children and is living in Beverly, Muriel Holleran and Gerry Coghlan Lynch who have three children and are living in Norwood.

Betty Sweeney Minassian is living in Medford with her three children and is a part-time supervisor at Mass. Eye and Ear Infirmary. Ann Cadonette has moved to Michigan. Sally Clough Hetherington is living in Framingham with her two children. Sally's husband has a dental practice there. Betty Cook Di-milla has just moved to Framingham and she has two children. Claire Coulambe Hickey is in Germany and has just had her first daughter. Claire also has three sons. We are sorry to hear that Valerie Lombardo Ferri has been ill. She is residing in California with her two children. Johanna Schwartz Tesser is living in Sudbury with her two sons. Mary Shanahan Conway has two little girls and moved into a new house in West Roxbury about a year ago. Brenda Reilly Molloy has three children and has been doing a lot of moving in the Mid West. Where are you now Brenda? Mary Carolyn Buckley Barrett has just had her third girl. She is living in Foxboro.

Cissy Moziez Olsen has received her Masters from Columbia University and as far as we know is living in Connecticut. Ann McLaughlin Buskey has one child and she and her husband run a ski lodge in Vermont. Carole Michaski Ross has twin boys and is living in Chelmsford. Pat Welling Hazelton has three children and is living in New Jersey. Pat King Gorgane has two children and is also in New Jersey. Pat Stafford O'Toole has one son and is still living in Worcester. John Ward Hurley is in Maynard with her two children. Ann Condon has five children and is in Connecticut.

Francis Sullivan is in his own Real Estate business in Fall River. Griffin Fallon, Jr. has been appointed Manager of the Boston office of Dempsey-Tegeler & Company, member of New York Stock Exchange. Congratulations to Bill Griffin on his recent marriage to Catherine Mary Cleminshaw who were married in Church of St. Paul the Apostle in Westwood. Bill and his wife went to Acapulco and Mexico City. George Murphy has been appointed New England Telephone's district traffic manager in Salem. Al Livingston has been promoted to associate professor of Lafayette College. John Norton has been appointed as an Assistant Professor of English at the University of California, Riverside. Peter Murphy has returned from tour of duty at the Consulate of the United States in Cordoba, Argentina.

William J. Doran and his wife Brenda are the proud parents of their first child, a son, recently christened William J. Doran, Jr. Bill is teaching at Cambridge High and Latin and is active in the Cambridge Teachers Association.

Joanne Creonte Garrity has been living in the American colony in Bangkok, Thailand with her three children while Bob (A&S, '57) commutes to eastern war zones on communications assignments for the U.S. Government. The Garritys expect to be reassigned to another area soon.

Twins, Joseph and Joan, born in the fall, bring the number of children in Julie Sheehan Kreja's family to five. Julie and Dick are living in New York after a year in Hawaii. Dick is a research biologist at Columbia Medical Center. The Krejas paid a summer visit to Anne Plociennik Marshall and husband, Bob (A&S, '56) who live in Pittsburgh. Anne has been supervising student teachers, as well as caring for her three children, that include a set of twins.

Joan Dillon is teaching at Cambridge High and Latin and is a member of the Harvard G.S.E.'s newly designed program for Teacher-Liaisons. Under a released time program, these teachers pursue advanced studies and projects in the area of educational change with guidance from the Harvard staff.

Joanne Welch Mente and her husband Larry without their four children, Andrew six, Peter five, Kate four, and Philip three, have recently returned from Palm Springs, California, where Larry participated in a seminar in nuclear physics.

Rose O'Brien Sperry and Dick, who are living in Arlington, are anticipating a move to Cambridge.

Joan Downing Lachance sends congratulations to Bea Capraro Busa on her new business venture.

Camille Drinkwater Harris and her husband Don have just built a mansion in Wakefield — every best and warm wish for happiness and health in their new home.

Margaret (Peggy) Gibbons was married on April 1st to Peter Nostrand of White Plains, New York. The marriage took place at St. Timothy's in Norwood. The Nostrands plan to live and work in the New York City area, Peg with Gem Foods and Pete with I.B.M.

Joanne Neviera Shalna and husband are now living in Quincy.

Heard from Dick Keefe recently and he informed me that after five years as head of the French Dept. at a prep school in St. Louis he will join the faculty of St. Louis Univ. High School as a teacher of French. Dick would love to hear from his old friends. His address — 8638 Old Bonhomme Road, St. Louis, Mo. 63132.

Tony LoPrete has been living in Seymour, Conn. for the past six years with his lovely wife and three boys. At the present time, Tony is Asst. Principal at the Seymour Junior High School and summer recreation director for the town.

Jim Quinn, residing in Dover, Mass., is marketing manager for the Jarvis Corp. Jim spends his week-ends baby-sitting for his twin boys — Jimmy and John.

Charlie Crehan, having recently purchased a new home in Baintree, is teaching in Scituate, Mass.

Please inform your class correspondent of all news.

Ron Seguin is a newly employed salesman of Shell Oil Company, assigned to the Providence district office. Jim Myers has been named Manager of Office Services for the Digital Equipment Corporation in Maynard. Jim is now living in Chelmsford with his wife Elaine and their two sons, John Flynn, Jr. is a new faculty member at the University of the South as an instructor in history. John was an instructor and assistant professor at St. John's University in New York from 1961-1966 and since has been a lecturer at Brooklyn College. John and his wife have a young daughter.

It's the season for boys! Congratulations to Mary Caskin Mengers on the birth of her second son and to Mary Jane Gibbons Walton whose newly born fourth child is also #2 son.

Elaine Geissler writes that she is job hopping to the good ship Hope as of June 1. She will assume the role of Director of Nursing Education. Land lubbers wishing to contact Elaine can do so via her parents address: 4 Karen Drive, South Hadley, 01075.

Understand that the Wiklinskis (Barbara Cartnick) are homeward bound from Puerto Rico during the summer. Stash will be studying at Yale Graduate School.

Our sympathies are expressed to June Kelly Scanlan on the recent death of her father.

Every now and then Vietnam becomes a reality for those of us whose lives have been little affected by any war. Our hearts go out to Claire Haynes Baker whose husband Curt was killed on March 26 while flying a reconnaissance mission in Vietnam. Curt was buried with full military honors at Arlington National Cemetery on April 12, his first wedding anniversary. Claire intends to remain on active duty at Great Lakes. Our prayers and best wishes for your future, Claire.

Congratulations to Frank Lane who was recently elected a Town Meeting member in Belmont. I recently had a phone conversation with Bob McHugh who brought me up to date on various class members he sees frequently. Bob, himself, is a thriving real estate owner in Boston, owning several dormitories. He is living in Ipswich with his wife and children, three boys and a girl. He told me that Charlie McCarty, who is the father of two boys, is living in Marlboro and works at NASA where he is director of training. Jack Joyce is working with Charlie and is a training officer. Jack, his wife and three sons are living in Hudson. Charlie McCullagh, living in West Springfield, is manager of Industrial Relations at the Worthington Corporation. All you classmates with young children will be interested to know that Tom Flatley is Assistant Merchandising Manager of the infants clothing department at Carters in Needham. Tom resides in West Roxbury and is rearing two boys and two girls. Paul Woelfel is living in Holbrook and is a production manager at the Boston Globe. The class inventor is Bob Scigliano who has two patents in his name. Bob is teaching the mentally retarded in the Boston School System and is still living in Revere. Bob Kellan and his wife, the former Pauline Mathieu (Ed '59), are living in N.Y.C. Their second child, a boy, was born on January 19th. Bob will complete his year as Chief Resident at N.Y. Eye and Ear Infirmary this June. They are both looking forward to coming back to this area and in July, Bob will begin the practice of Ophthalmology in Lawrence. Received a note from one of our classmates which reads as follows—"Rev. John J. Keane of St. Catherine of Siena, Charlestown, was recently on the WBZ Contact Radio and T.V. programs with Bob Kennedy defending the church and faith in magnificent fashion and is seen at most of the hockey games at McHugh Forum". If you're flying to Chicago on American Airlines your pilot may be Jim O'Neil. Jim was recently promoted to Captain. He and his wife, Jean, are living in Winchester with their two children. Ron McIntyre is in his second year at Suffolk Law. Joe Livingston is in the advertising department of the Patriot Ledger in Quincy. Dr. Bill Parks is on the Pathological Service at St. Elizabeth's and is completing his last year of residence. If you've had a hard time keeping warm this winter, speak to Jay Sullivan who is selling for Metropolitan Coal and Oil Company. Jay is married and is living in Walpole. Bill Hartnett, who received his M.B.A. from Harvard last June, is living in northern New Jersey and is covering the New England area for First Mortgage Company of N.Y.C. Those of you who venture to the Cape this summer, stop by at the Old Masters Gallery on Main Street in West Dennis which will be run by Jim Healy and his brother.

Tony DiMatteo, an avid Bruin fan, (how come?), lost his bachelorhood status last November 19th to Wanda Novak, an R.N., who hails from north of the border. Tony is the director of research and information for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. He's also a member of the Mayor's Citizens Advisory Committee.

Brian McCarthy, did the same thing as Tony when he took Cynthia Genereaux as his bride on April 22, 1967. He honeymooned in Bermuda and spent much time listening with rapt attention to the stories of that legendary Bermudian, Louis Soares.

Francis Demeo is a C.P.A. with Meahl, McNamara and Company. Since you go in for skin diving as a hobby, Frank, you shouldn't get too many calls from the insurance men in our class.

Richard Boudreau is studying for the priesthood.

John Murray, is a Professor of Business Administration and Chairman of the Business Division at Massasoit Community College in North Abington. He also finds time to teach Production Management at the BC Graduate School.

Ed Rogers, after gathering some experience as a purchasing agent for Grand Union in New Jersey, moved up to New England Sales Manager for McCray Corp., a Division of Litton Industries.

Joe Blister, who was recently defeated in the combined world championship euchre and cribbage contest by Doc Soares, was married to Eddie Park's sister, February 22nd.

Captain Danny Walsh is spending some time in Viet Nam.

Kevin Diggins is now with Foxboro Company.

Chet Blake and Connie Brady are both with Sylvania. Chet is a supervisor of operational planning and Connie, a supervisor of cost control.

Jim Cannon is a principal in the Waltham School System.

Look at how we've spread:

John Dowling and Earl Smith are lieutenants with the United States Navy.

Steve Cronin, M.D., married to Pat Zukowsky, (Nursing '65) father of two, is with the U.S. Public Health Service in Puerto Rico.

Peter Murphy is an Assistant Vice Consul, Department of State, in Cordoba, Argentina.

Jerry Havdra is general Sales Manager for Tesauro Data Processing Company in Detroit, Michigan.

John McDonough is a financial analyst with the Federal Home Loan Bank in Vienna, Virginia.

Ed Shea is a building consultant with Belletis, Jeffrey, New Hampshire.

Louie Soares says he's the owner of a fleet of boats and lobster boats.

Meanwhile on the local scene:

John Overton buys frozen food for First National Stores.

Jim McCabe is Sales Manager for W. D. Mann Company.

Andris Priede is an engineer with Jarrell Ash Company.

John F. Dempsey is a tech writer for RCA.

Thomas F. Sullivan is the director of program development at Bio-Dynamics.

Jack Cronin was blessed with his first child, March 13, 1967. Congratulations!

Ronny Ariere is a psychiatric social worker for the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

Jerry Foley and his wife Beverly got tired of the long cold winter and flew off to Bermuda in February for an all too short respite.

To close on a very somber note, the following letter was received by the class:

"Dear _____,
I hesitate to send you such sad news but I feel that you would want to have this information about Alan for your records. After graduation he worked at Filenes for a short time, then entered O.T.S. (Air Force) early in 1960. Married Mary Patricia O'Hearn, July 1960. Took her back to Texas where he was based. There Mark Helsing was born April 12, 1961. He was transferred to Heath A.F.B. in Ohio and there Michael Grant Helsing was born September 10, 1962. Also while there he became a full Lieutenant and was a real credit to us all. He chose to return to civilian life and came home with his family in August 1963. Went to work in October '63 for United Parcel Service in Watertown for their executive trainee program and was making great strides. On January 3, 1964 as he was leaving his office to get into his car to come home, he was struck by a hit-run driver. Received extensive brain damage and was not expected to live. In a coma for months. Was transferred to Holy Ghost Hospital and that is where he is at this writing. He shows some improvement in that he recognizes us and tries to talk but we are told that he will never be able to leave his bed. Trisha and the children are here with me and we keep hoping. Sorry, if this is all too grim but would like his classmates to know that he would be in there pitching if he could. Good luck in your Alumni plans.

Judy Lydon Driscoll and Joan Mannix Harrington have been leaving baby's diapers and feedings behind this winter to take up skiing lessons at the Blue Hills. Can't you just picture it—a cigarette in one hand, poles in another!

Dolly Wellington Carney, husband Philip, and son Daniel returned to visit Boston area from Cleveland, Ohio. The Carney's bumped into Mary Donovan Gilligan and Kathy Goodhue at a Peabody restaurant where Mary and Kathy were exchanging Christmas gifts—in April!

Lois Sodari did her class proud when she was shown in the American Journal of Nursing for her work at the Skin Clinic at Mass. General Hospital.

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. James Beaton (Sylvia Pike) who were married on January 28, and are living in Norwood. Jane Schatle Cosmo, Gail Kenney, and Pat Quinn Meomartine were among the many wedding guests. Sylvia is doing psychiatric nursing at the Brockton V.A. Hospital.

Gail Kenney is teaching at the Faulkner Hospital School of Nursing and is working towards a master's degree at B.C. School of Education.

Hope Rosemary Mayme Gualteri has shed the crutches she sported at the Alumnac Spring Fashion Show!

Mimi Horwitz was kept busy in March at St. Margaret's Hospital as Patient Teaching Supervisor with the admission of 3 classmates, each giving birth to girls: Grace McLaughlin Carty, Martha Cadigan Sullivan, and Doss Hand Quirk, who daughter Patricia arrived on the 17th! (Doss is related to a leprechaun.)

Our best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. James Reuter (Margie Donahue) who were married in the late fall. The Reuters are living in St. Louis.

Meliss Wilcox anticipates receiving her Master's in June from B.C. and is presently on the faculty at Northeastern University School of Nursing.

Ann Keleher Wright finds time to work as Supervisor of Obstetrics in addition to being mother of 3 children. Nothing like making the rest of us appear lazy! The Wrights make their home in New Jersey.

Ruth Wright Keyes and husband Bob are spending a while in France where Bob is being sent to school by the U.S. Army.

A big welcome home to Father Gorman, S.J., our traveling salesman for the Lay Apostolate Program. Father spent Easter vacation at the mission of St. Mary's Alaska, located only a few miles from Russia on the Bering Strait. However, he hadn't anticipated being snowed and fogged in for eight extra days! Among five B.C. grads that he visited at the St. Mary's post are Pat Gannon's sister Penny and Joe Cart's sister Cathye.

Our fifth annual St. Patrick's Day Cocktail Party was recently held and those who attended related that they had a great time. Thanks to Chairman, Frank Sullivan the event was a success. However, to encourage larger attendance in the future, we will hold this event on a Saturday evening.

Don't forget to send your annual dues of $2.00. Recently you received information in detail about dues and class expenses.

Charlie Fretter has purchased a home in Dedham. NASA claims Charlie in its public relations group. He is also jubilant about his recent passing of the Mass. bar.

Bob Kelly is the regional sales manager with Boston Warren Hose.

Ralph Gridley announces the birth of his third child and first boy, Michael.

Bill Elbery has just moved his wife Anne and two sons, Bill Jr. 2½ yrs. and Mark 2½ mos. from San Rafael, California, to Raleigh, North Carolina. Bill, who served four years in the U.S. Navy as a lieutenant, is now a marketing specialist for Pak-Well Company of Portland, Oregon.

Jack Kelleher, Territory Representative at Xerox Corporation's Atlanta East branch, was graduated recently from the company's National Sales Development Center in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Jack resides in Athens, Georgia. Oscar Aubin has been appointed to Real Estate Representative in the Hartford Area of Mobil Oil Corp. Carmen DiMaggio has been promoted to underwriting and contract specialist in the group pension division of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. Congratulations to John Eddy on his recent marriage to the former Armonia Maria Badenes on February 14. The wedding was celebrated at the Abbey of Montserrat, Barcelona, Spain. John and his new bride will be living in Caracas, Venezuela.

Faith Zeadey is teaching at Worcester State College where she is a member of the Sociology Department. I have received a letter from Gerry McKenna. Gerry is with the 2d Battalion, 5th Cavalry, 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) in Vietnam. He writes that military operations there are only one-half of the battle. "The other half is to win the minds and hearts of all of the Vietnamese and Montagnard people to the ideals of freedom and democracy.

We attempt to do this through comprehensive social and medical programs. Needless to say some items for social rehabilitation are in somewhat short supply. Could I impose upon you through the B.C. Alumni Bulletin to ask my fellow alumni for such mundane items as: a) soap, b) wet weather gear, c) summer clothing, d) sandals and e) basic farming utensils, etc." Any of these items may be shipped directly to:

Although you may not have realized it until now, we are rapidly approaching the fifth anniversary of our graduation and thus our first big reunion. There remains only three issues of Alumni News until June 1968.

In order that we may make some preliminary plans in the area of contacting you, we are asking that you spend five cents and about five minutes of your time to send us a note with your present address, or that address where you could best be contacted by mail.

At the same time include a line or two as to your present activity, marital status and concrete future plans if available. We fully realize that your address may change between now and then but this will give us something more current to work with than the listing at the end of the Sub-Turri. At the same time it will give you the opportunity of making some plans with old acquaintances and we are planning to put these addresses in the forthcoming issues of Alumni News. If you do not desire the information to be published just state so in your note—but send it anyway. It's a small world and that certain individual may be working for the same company or living just over the state line.

Jack Leetch, married this past February, is now an instructor at the Naval Flight School in Corpus Christi, Texas. Sue Moynihan is with USPH in Glens Falls, New York. She has a beau in Washington, D.C.

Betty Michalski, is with USPH in N.Y.C. Kathy Keegan continues with the U.S.A. in that city and has a new love, Joan McGregor is anxiously awaiting graduation from N.Y.U. and in the meantime is seeing all the plays, concerts and museums that school will allow. Betsy O'Neill is in the Adult Psych. Program at Columbia. Also in N.Y.C. is Ginny Breslin who will be married in June to Tom.

Another wedding planned is Jack O'Brien and Carol Lium in early September. Pat Loban shall also be married this summer.

Steve and Joanne (Plasse) Root are the parents of a new daughter, Elise. Steve is still in Vietnam and will be home soon. Peggy Bianchi is working full time at Framingham Union Hospital. She plans a trip to Europe in August with Claire Polek.

Some of the Navy nurses in Portsmouth, Va. have taken a trip to Europe via US Navy. Joanne Knight continues duty in Newport, R.I. and has been seeing a bit of Neil Bryson, CBA, '65 who is also at the hospital there Masters in June.

Frank Pados is out at the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School of Business in Philadelphia. Also in Philadelphia you can find Paul Marshall at Jefferson Medical School. And speaking about medical school—St. Louis is keeping Ned Dalton, Tom Lutz, Ed Vernier and Dick Fitzgerald pretty busy while the University of Vermont is doing the same for Tom Claffey and Jay Hunt. Jim Statt was married the week after graduation and he and his wife, Kathy, are living out in Syracuse, N.Y. while Jim is at the Medical School out there.

Joe Coccozza was married during the summer and he and his wife, Fran, are living in Brighton. Joe is at B.C. at the present time. He expects to receive his masters in Sociology in June and then move on to Brown where he will work for his doctorate.

Peggy Embler seems to be keeping the Navy healthy out at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, and John Gorman is serving his country as a member of the United States Marines. He is stationed at Quantico, Virginia. Congratulations are in order for John Magilligan. He was commissioned in the U.S. Navy and is now in flight school. In addition, he is going to be married June 5th. Marianne McGinnis is in complete control of a band of 32 third graders.

Paul Gramling and Kathy McEnelley have been engaged and are planning a summer wedding. Paul is in medical school at the University of Wisconsin. Jack Nixon is presently doing graduate work in History here in Washington. Also here in Washington, you can find Joe DeVyllder and Ward

Charlie Heffernan and Ellie Hacking are planning an early September wedding. Charlie is at Fordham Law School along with John Paxton and Eugene Porcaro. Mary Ellen Driscoll and Ann Riley are reported to be doing an excellent job down in Jamaica as B.C. Lay Apostles. Bob LeLievre is out at the University of Cincinnati in the Graduate School of Psychology and expects to have his Gravel at Georgetown's School of Dentistry, and Kevin Oarmody at C.U. Law.

George Billings and Sandy Astuti have been engaged. George is down at U. Conn. Law School in Hartford along with Mike Lahan, Tom McDermott, Art Misan and Tom Murphy. Gerry Kennelly was down in Washington early in March taking a break from his studies at Yale Medical School and he reports that Jack Mantos and Billy Keane are doing quite well at Dartmouth where they are also studying medicine.

We guess no report on our class would be complete without mention of the whereabouts of "Marryin Sam". At last report, he was seen over at Harvard Law, but we also hear that in his spare time, he is doing quite a job for Sen. Beryl Cohen down at the state-house.

Mike Quirk, Bill Shea, Fred Musto, Michael Donovan and Joe Phipps have been commissioned second lieutenants in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Joe O'Connor was commissioned an officer in the U.S. Navy following his graduation from the 16-week Officers' Candidate School at the Naval Base in Newport, R.I. John Thompson has been named one of the 88 Peace Corps Volunteers who departed in mid-December for assignment to Malaysia as English, science and math teachers. Ed Duffy has been named one of 50 Peace Corps Volunteers who departed on January 4 for assignment in Ghana as secondary school teachers. Tom Cousineau is doing graduate work at the U. of C. at Davis. Bill Gilbert was married last September and is working for Purex Corp. Gerald Pasquantonia completed a nine-week signal officer course Jan. 20 at the Army Southeastern Signal School, Ft. Gordon, Ga. Stanley Klukowski is one of 60 Peace Corps Volunteers recently assigned to India.

Wedding bells have been ringing continuously and many new diamonds have been added since our graduation. Lynn Meegan married Paul R. Huard (A&S '66). They are living in Washington, D.C., where Lynn is stationed and Paul is attending Law School. Elaine Peretto married Richard Cremin (class '65). They are also living in Washington.

EVENING COLLEGE

RICHARD J. SLUBEN
8 Alfred Road, Framingham

Robert Steele '64 is a claims specialist with Lumberman's Mutual Casualty. He lives in Marlboro and is married to the former Ellen Hough. They have two children, Michael, seven, and Ruane, who is five, and expect a new addition in June.

Other Evening College grads associated with Lumberman's Mutual are Gerald Walsh '65 and Robert Brooke '63. Jerry is a claims adjuster. He is married, has two children, and has a new home in Swampscott. Bob is a claims supervisor, is married, has three children with another on the way and lives in Chelmsford. Attending school evenings is still part of his life... he is a third year law student at Portia.

After graduating, Phil Meaney '63 became a supervisor for New England Tel and Tel. He lives in Winthrop with his wife and two children.

Jane Sheehan '64 has been teaching second grade for the past three years. First, she was at St. Bridget's in So. Boston and now is in Okinawa teaching the children whose fathers are returning from or heading for Viet Nam. She reports she is treated royally by the island inhabitants... even has a full-time maid. She is due home in June.

Dick Canniff '66 has just secured a new position as Director of Purchasing of Choate Hospital in Woburn. He was formerly associated with my old stamping grounds Aloe Medical.

News for the Evening College is probably one of the most difficult to compile since many contacts are lost after graduation. Some people have told me they are reluctant to write because it is like tooting your own horn. Not so! Alumni News is your magazine... please help make this column a success by regular contributions... share your news with all of us.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

ROBERT P. ZIOMEK
16 Spring Street, Lexington

At the spring business meeting, the following officers have been elected for the coming year: Bob Ziomek, President; Harry Riley, Vice President; George Jude, Treasurer and Lou Totino, Secretary. The incoming officers also announced tentative plans for next year which include monthly diner meetings, a social night, reception for the graduating class, panel discussions and a quarterly newsletter. September 1968 will mark the tenth anniversary of the Graduate School of Business and plans are being made to commemorate the occasion. All members should have received the first issue of the Alumni Directory; requests for copies should be directed to the Graduate Business office in Fulton Hall. Congratulations to our past president Jim McGill for a successful and interesting program conducted during the past year.

Our Company and the Boston College Alumni Association share a similarity of purpose. In our different ways, each of us strive to provide the broad publics we serve with the highest of quality standards. Each of us has the goal of giving service to the Community.

We both anticipate the arrival of the latest crop of quality merchandise. In our case it's food. In your case it's that group of men and women who will soon graduate and join the ranks of your Association.

We wish them then—and you—the large success that quality provides and hope they will join with you in contributing to the growth and success of the Boston College Alumni Association.
